

MORE BOMBING IS POSSIBLE

Laird Cites 5 Violations

... OF 1968 'UNDERSTANDING'

Washington (AP) — Accusing Hanoi of five violations of the 1968 bombing-halt understanding, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said Monday he would not rule out more air strikes against North Vietnam to protect withdrawing U.S. forces.

But Laird said the strikes by a reported force of 350 U.S. planes over the past two days are of limited duration and will not slow down U.S. withdrawal from the war.

Democratic Sen. George McGovern alleged, however, that the bombings will prevent release of American prisoners of war and result in more being captured.

With U.S. forces down to 160,000, Laird said, "The primary emphasis is on protecting the remaining American forces that are in Vietnam today."

Violations Cited

Asked if the heavy bombing of North Vietnam since Sunday was a reversal of the U.S. bombing halt in 1968, Laird did not reply directly but listed what he called five violations by North Vietnam of the 1968 understanding.

He said these include recent shelling of South Vietnam's cities including Saigon, demilitarized zone violations, no progress on peace negotiations "as promised in 1968," attacks on U.S. reconnaissance planes and more attacks on all types of U.S. planes this month than in any one month since 1968.

North Vietnam never has acknowledged making any agreement such as Washington says it made.

Hanoi on Monday denounced the bombings.

A spokesman of North Vietnam's foreign ministry in Hanoi was quoted by the official Vietnam News Agency as saying "thus, in two consecutive days, the U.S. imperialists made frenzied air attacks on populous central North Vietnam, grossly encroaching upon the sovereignty and security" of North Vietnam.

The agency said the spokesman "vehemently denounced ... the acts of war of the U.S. imperialists and resolutely demanded the latter to stop at once all acts of infringement upon the sovereignty and security" of North Vietnam.

Laird Not Specific

Laird refused to name targets or give other details on the bombing strikes, saying "erroneous statements" by Hanoi in the last 36 hours showed the enemy is "obviously confused" and he did not want to give information that would endanger the American pilots or their mission.

But the secretary said all targets were military and promised to give complete details after the current bombing stops.

McGovern said the "shocking escalation" of the bombing "sinks us deeper into the quagmire of Indochina and, more important, makes it certain none of our prisoners will be released." On the contrary, he said, it will result in more Americans being captured.

'Bankruptcy Of Policy'

"The new indiscriminate bombing of military and civilian targets in North Vietnam — in an air war we have tried to conceal from the world with rhetoric about 'withdrawal' — is a final confession of the bankruptcy of the Nixon policy of Vietnamization," McGovern said.

He is campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Laird said he believes North Vietnam has stepped up its fighting in Laos and Cambodia because South Vietnam is secure and said he expects to see the fighting increased in those two countries and possibly in South Vietnam's central highlands between now and the time of Nixon's trip to China — and possibly again near the U.S. election next November.

The current bombing is the ninth large-scale U.S. air strike against North Vietnam since the 1968 halt and comes after the downing of six U.S. jet fighters and a reported doubling by North Vietnam of its anti-aircraft missile sites along its border with Laos.

Laird said the U.S. air war has decreased during the Nixon administration — down 20% for U.S. tactical fighter sorties and down from 1,800 a month to 1,000 or less for B52 bombing sorties.

Exon Presents Tax Exemption Plan

... LABELS BURBACH'S PROPOSAL, 'WINDFALL FOR AFFLUENT'

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Monday described Crofton Sen. Jules Burbach's 5-year, 90% personal property tax exemption plan as "a windfall for the affluent" and instead forwarded his own "more equitable" version.

The presentation was made by the pro-Exon forces at the first of some 15 statewide appearances planned during January to present the administration's side of the property tax hassle.

The campaign is designed to drum up both public and political support for Exon's plan which will be presented at the upcoming legislative session along with Burbach's proposal.

During the last session of the Legislature, two Burbach property tax exemption bills were vetoed by Exon—and one bill came within two votes of overriding the governor's veto.

The basic difference between the two schools of thought is one of degree and who would benefit most.

Exon's plan (50% personal property tax exemption over 6 or 7 years) involves a "circuit-breaker" approach to give the tax relief "to those who need it the most—Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Nebraskan." Exon also said his plan would not necessitate a raise in the sales and income tax levels which Burbach's would.

The way the Exon exemption plan would work is that Nebraskans would eventually receive a credit on their state income taxes on 50% of the property taxes on farm and business equipment and inventory paid. During the first year, there would be a $50 credit ceiling; $100 the following and so on until after 6 or 7 years a $1,000 credit ceiling is reached.

Eventually, some $18 million in property tax relief would be realized with approximately $4.7 million during the first year, Exon said.

The property tax exemption was made possible by passage in 1970 of constitutional amendment 10.

Although it made the exemption possible, some sources raised the constitutional by question of the 50% property tax credit on income taxes.

However, the governor's legal counsel, Norm Krivosha, said the measure, which still has not been finalized, should meet constitutional standards.

The thrust of Exon's presentation was that his plan favors the average Nebraskan whereas Burbach's favors upper income brackets. The governor released some figures done by the Revenue Department to illustrate the situation. (See graph Page 3.)

"The claim that his (Burbach's) plan helps the masses just isn't the truth."

"Only one out of eight Nebraskans pays any personal property taxes," Exon explained graphically with a slide show.

"Of this one in eight, 15% paid 70.6% of the $45 million in 1971 personal property taxes."

"Sixty-one per cent of Nebraska businesses and farms paid less than $100. That means that this group pays only 5.9% of the property taxes."

"As you can see, Sen. Burbach's plan shifts the property tax load from the affluent to the average Nebraskan who doesn't have the ability to pass on his taxes."

"It's a mad dash for a favored few. It would result in an income tax rate of 18% and a sales tax of 4 1/2% with little real property tax relief for most," he said.

In addition to limited relief for most, Exon charged that Burbach's plan could be financially ruinous. It would amount to a "blank check for governmental subdivisions," he said.

The governor said this is because the local units would not hesitate to build new facilities if they knew they had to finance only 10% through property taxes with the remainder to come from the state.

Rather than the relief being "lost in local governments," Exon said his plan would give the citizens relief directly through the income tax credit.

On hand to support Exon's plan, Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said he was supporting Exon's plan after learning of Exon's figures.

"I supported Burbach's plan last year, but after seeing who really benefits I've changed my mind," the Senator said.

credit for each taxpayer. The governor wants to hold first-year replacement costs to $3 million.

Other senators have preferred plans of their own. Among them is Sen. J. James Waldron's proposal to fully exempt livestock, poultry and grain, and apply a $300 exemption credit to other personal property, including business inventories and farm equipment.

Among the opponents, Sen. George Syas of Omaha says "we are narrowing our tax base too much."

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln says he cannot support

If all senators who support personal property tax exemptions can agree on a single plan, it looks like Nebraska farmers and businessmen can look forward to at least some reductions beginning in 1973.

The 1971 Unicameral enacted two exemption plans, but both fell before the veto power of Gov. J. James Exon.

Exon will propose his own limited exemption plan to lawmakers next month.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton will bring in a third legislative alternative developed by his tax study committee.

3 to 1 Margin

Senators who responded to The Star's legislative survey support personal property tax exemption by a margin of more than three to one.

The only expressed opposition comes from Lincoln and Omaha legislators, but even a number of the big city representatives indicate they are ready to accept a phased and limited program this time around.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, who supported one exemption bill in 1971, says he could endorse a beginning rate of 20%, while Sens. Eugene Mahoney and Glenn Goodrich, both of Omaha, suggested 10%. Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha could vote for a 15% start.

Burbach's new committee plan calls for a 30% beginning in 1973, gradually increasing over an ensuing four-year period to the 90% level. Estimated first-year cost in replacement funds from state sales and income tax revenue: between $13.5 million and $14.4 million.

Phased Program

Exon suggests a phased program which eventually would reach the 50% level, with a maximum $1,000 annual tax

India Agrees To War Crimes Trials

By The Associated Press

The Indian government appeared Monday night to have agreed that Pakistani soldiers and civilians in East Pakistan could be tried as war criminals, United News of India reported.

Foreign newsmen were not invited to a news briefing in New Delhi attended by Foreign Secretary T. N. Kaul, but the Indian news agency — allowed to quote only "sources"—said it was told a former Indian guarantee of amnesty no longer applied now that the Bangla Desh government was being set up.

Gen. Sam Manekshaw, Indian army chief of staff, had replied to a Pakistan cease-fire appeal two weeks ago that he would guarantee "complete protection to foreign nationals, ethnic minorities and personnel of West Pakistan origin, no matter who they may be."

But the sources quoted at Monday's briefing claimed that the Geneva Convention on prisoners of war did not cover civilians and did not afford protection to soldiers "who had been charged with commission of heinous crimes unless these were committed in the performance of their duty."

Manekshaw's guarantee was waived with the explanation that he was acting only until a Bangla Desh government was formed, United News of India quoted sources as saying.

Options Available For Title I Services

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln School District has been told that several options are available as possible ways to provide services to eligible private schoolchildren under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

But Lincoln School Supt. John Prasch said Monday that decisions on how the Lincoln schools can exercise those options will await further clarification of the matter from the State Department of Education.

Discussion of the federal program for educationally handicapped children began late last summer when Catholic educators complained that comparable services called for in federal guidelines were not being provided children who attend church schools.

The discussions led to a review of Nebraska's administration of Title I programs by a team from the U.S. Office of Education and subsequent visits between State Education Department officials and local school administrators in Nebraska.

Prasch said Monday he is asking for clarification of several points discussed in a letter which summarized the visit between Lincoln school officers and state officials.

The letter to Prasch from State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley says several options, including dual enrollment and mobile vans, are available to the Lincoln schools.

"Services may be delivered to the private schools in the following ways," said Stanley:

—"dual enrollment when the public and private schools are no more than three blocks apart and there are no major safety hazards between the buildings."

—"leasing space at a neutral site consistent with" the three-block limitation.

—"providing the services in a mobile van," a classroom on wheels which could be moved from school site to school site.

After Christmas Wig Clearance, House of Wigs, 12th and N, or any Lucile Duerr Salon. Syn. Wigs, $8 and up, HH hand tied, $49.95, style incl.—Ad —"provide the necessary equipment and materials which support the identifiable Title I programs being conducted for disadvantaged private school children."

—"depending on the outcome of the Hartington case, it may be possible for the public school to lease a room within a private school for Title I activities."

Stanley has said previously that much may hinge on the State Supreme Court's upcoming ruling in the latter matter, which involves an attempt by the Hartington School District to lease a room in a private school for activities funded through Title I.

Dual enrollment, also mentioned in the letter, means private school youngsters would enroll as public school pupils for purposes of the Title I classes.

The letter also suggested Lincoln's Title I program be altered during the current year and offered a formula — determining how to break out "equitable allotments available for serving eligible children in both public and private schools."

the gang as Kurt Vicens, a 44-year-old Austrian from Vienna with connections to the underworld in Marseilles, France. They also suspected that one of his accomplices was Roger Kock, 37, of Marseilles.

The trio stormed into the downtown Domkloster branch of the Deutsche Bank Monday morning. They shot up an armored teller's cage, then grabbed three bank employees, two girls and a father of six children, and demanded a getaway car.

Area Sealed Off

Sixty policemen and 30 police cruisers sealed off the area an hour later, still inside the bank, they accepted a police offer to release the employees and use two policemen as hostages. The policemen were criminal police director Werner Hamacher and chief of uniformed police Hans Kraus.

While police dickered with them, over 1,000 curiosity seekers gathered outside and police herded them onto side streets.

Police provided a van for the gangsters and, with hundreds of spectators watching and television cameras whirring, they pushed their police hostages inside and fled with the loot stashed in a large black suitcase and a briefcase.

A huge motorcade of newsmen followed and police hovered overhead in a helicopter over hundreds of miles as they sped over roads along the Rhine River.

In Koblenz the gangsters ordered Hamacher, who was driving the getaway van, to stop, then warned a patrolman following to get rid of the newsmen or "we'll use our guns." Police managed to break off most of the journalistic tail.

Cop Buys Gas

The other police hostage, Kraus, was forced to pay for gas when the gangsters stopped at various stations to fill up.

The gangsters said they would take the vehicle to Frankfurt, but suddenly switched directions and headed for the French border at Saarbruecken. The helicopter lost the chase because of darkness and fog.

Authorities said the gang later contacted the Saarland state police and let the hostages go in return for a 20-minute headstart. Police agreed, to the exchange, to take place in Saarbruecken.

Police sources said the gangsters abandoned their vehicle with the hostages inside in a wooded area near St. Wendel and fled on foot. Contingents of police scouted the area and French authorities posted police forces along their side of the nearby border.

Trade Deficit Grows In November

... U.S. VIRTUALLY ASSURED OF FIRST RED INK SINCE 1893

Washington (AP) — The nation added another $227.2 million to its 1971 trade deficit in November, virtually assuring the country of the first deficit in its annual trade figures since 1893.

The Nixon administration had predicted a sizable deficit this year but hopes to turn the deficit into a surplus in 1972 through the new monetary agreements and the removal of trade barriers.

The Census Bureau reported Monday that the November deficit put the United States $1.7 billion deep into red ink for the 11 months of 1971.

The November deficit was the seventh time this year that monthly balance-of-trade figures have shown the United States to be a better customer of other nations than a seller of its own wares. October's deficit was $821.4 million, the worst monthly figures in the nation's history.

The last time the U.S. ended the year with an unfavorable balance of trade was 1893. Last year the country had $2.7-billion surplus and the nation has traditionally exported more than it imported.

Exports for the first 11 months have been running 2% over last year's total but imports are about 13% higher, the Census Bureau said, November's export figure was $3.16 billion but the nation imported $3.39 billion worth of other countries' goods.

The bureau said the duck strikes on the East and West Coasts probably influenced the import-export ratio but added it "does not have adequate information to enable it to specifically measure the influence of the strikes."

Strikes by longshoremen tied up traffic in West Coast ports from July 1 through October. East and Gulf Coast ports were affected from Oct. 1 into November, the bureau said.

New Agreement

The Nixon administration is hoping for better things in 1972 and looks to the new monetary agreement, built around an 8.5% devaluation of the dollar, to turn this year's deficit into a surplus.

The agreement makes imports more expensive and U.S. exports cheaper. The idea is to discourage Americans from buying imported goods and to help U.S. producers sell in foreign countries.

Nixon imposed a 10% import surcharge Aug. 15 to help discourage buying to imports and to persuade other countries to move toward a realignment of their money-exchange rates. The surcharge was removed Dec. 20 after the new monetary agreement was reached.

As part of the monetary settlement, the United States won concessions from Japan and the European Common Market to negotiate an end to trade barriers against U.S. goods.

Sheik Mujibur Rahman

President Of Pakistan Confers With Detained Leader Of East

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto conferred for the first time Monday with the detained leader of East Pakistan, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

"All I have to say is that he did not kick me in the teeth, nor did I find it necessary to pull a gun," Bhutto told a diplomatic reception after the meeting. "We sat and we talked. And we will continue to talk."

Bhutto added that he would meet Mujib soon again or send a representative to do so. He gave no specific date.

The new Pakistani president did not say where he met with the sheik but noted that he had come to the reception in a local hotel straight from the meeting.

Never once did Bhutto refer to Bangla Desh, the name the rebels have given to East Pakistan.

Father Of New Nation
They have claimed that Sheikh Mujib is the father of the new nation. But Bhutto referred to Mujib as an "elected leader of Pakistan who represents the Mujib as an 'elected leader of Pakistan who represents the people of East Pakistan.'"

The president expressed a belief that the Pakistani people wanted him to meet with the leaders of East Pakistan.

"I know people will wish us well in trying to come to a satisfactory conclusion in the interest of the unity and integrity of East Pakistan," Bhutto said.

He told the diplomats that the meeting "has not been an easy step to take, but it has been necessary to take this step. I wish it had been taken long ago."

Bhutto explained to the diplomats Pakistan's position on the recognition by other governments of Bangla Desh as an independent nation.

"We would take it amiss if any premature measure is taken in connection with any part of our country that has been forcibly occupied by a foreign power (India) and especially when we have entered into negotiations between leaders of East and West Pakistan," he said.

'A Hostile Act'
"Certainly we would regard it as a hostile act. Certainly we would take countermeasures whenever countermeasures can be taken."

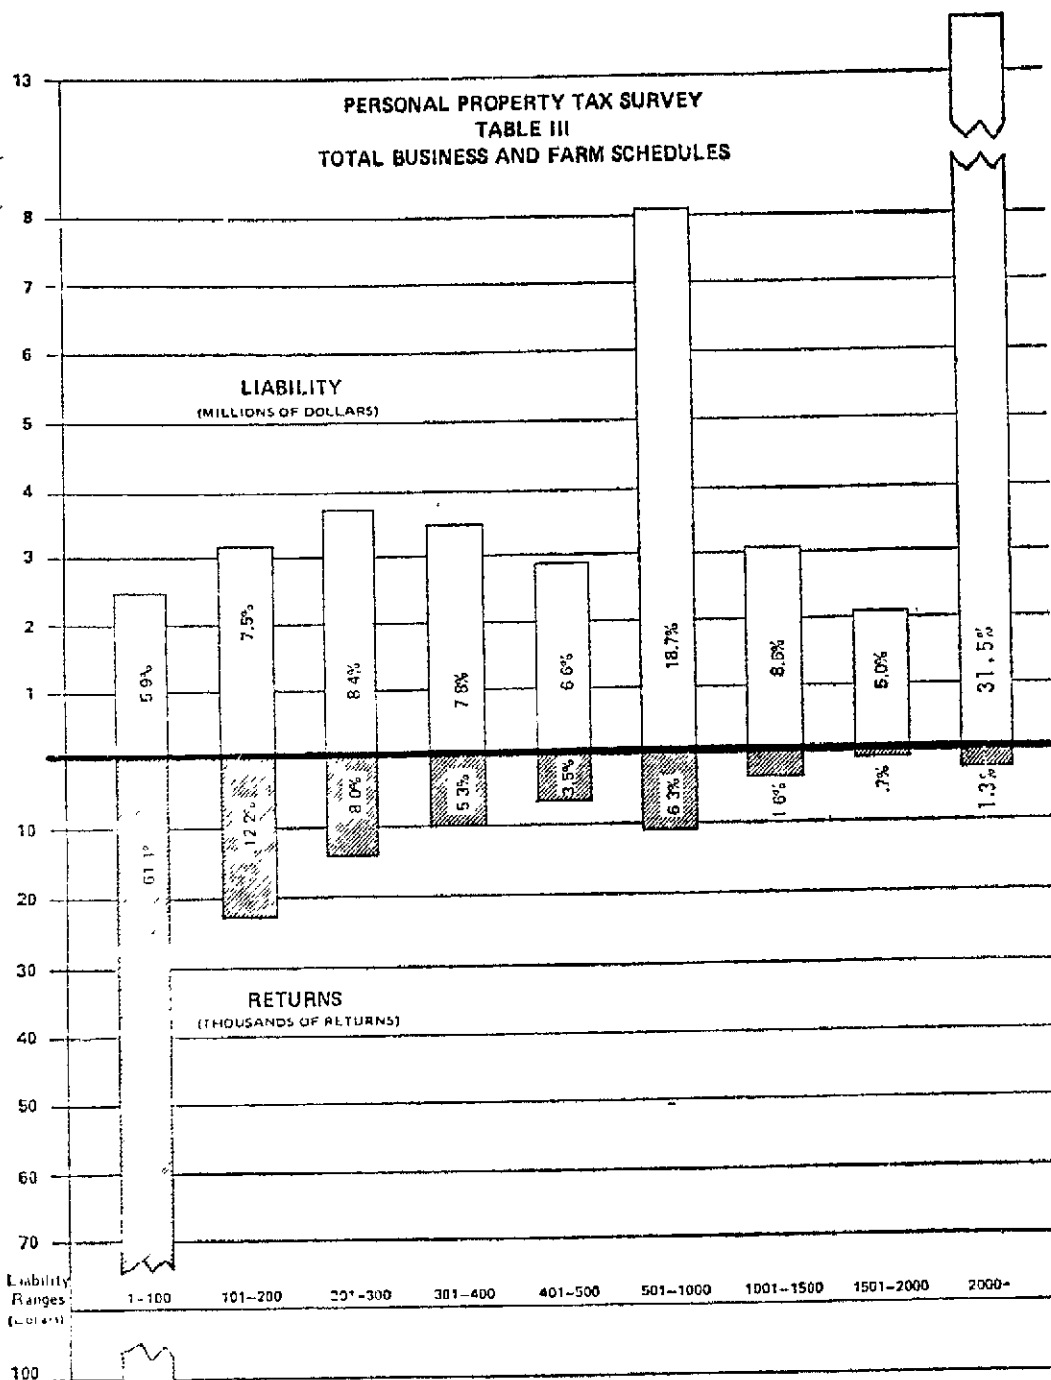

"Pakistan is indivisible. Pakistan shall remain one and no force on earth can dismember Pakistan. With the consent and with the will of the people we will build a new Pakistan."

India recognized Bangla Desh early this month and then thrashed Pakistan in a 14-day war that brought down the military regime of Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan and gave the Pakistani government to civilians for the first time since 1958.

Like Yahya, Bhutto has refused to recognize the secessionist movement as a success. He has maintained since he took office Dec. 20 that Pakistan remains one country.

Mujib has been detained in West Pakistan since the Pakistani army cracked down on his autonomy movement last March.

Mujib, head of the outlawed Awami League, is president of the Bangla Desh government in what was called East Pakistan before the 14-day war. The government operated in exile during the months leading up to the war with the sheik's lieutenants serving in key positions, including acting president.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX FILINGS SHOWN

This graph, released Monday by the governor's office, shows number of personal property tax returns filed and amounts of tax paid in 1971. Bars above the heavy black line show the total amount of taxes paid by taxpayers, ranging from $2.5 million by those who paid $1-$100 to $13.7 million paid by those who paid more than $2,000. Bars below the line show the number of returns — more than 100,000 returns from persons who paid $1-$100 and only 2,291 returns from those who paid more than $2,000. The graph is based on information supplied by the State Revenue Dept. Gov. Exon is proposing a plan whereby 50% of personal property taxes paid would be an income tax credit from the state, with a credit limit of $50 the first year up to $1,000 after six or seven years. U.S. Said Using Deadly New Bomb That Kills Everything In 750 Acres

Philadelphia (AP) — Two scientists who visited South Vietnam in August said Monday that the Air Force is using a relatively new bomb in Southeast Asia whose concussion is so intense that it kills everything within a radius of 3,280 feet.

The bomb, which produced a mushroom cloud, was developed primarily for "the instant creation of clearings in dense jungle which can be used as landing zones for assault helicopter," the scientists said.

But they added they had learned the bomb had been used as an antipersonnel explosive. They said they received confirmation on this from a high official at the U.S. Embassy in Saigon.

They said they were told by the Air Force the bomb was used two or three times a week.

The report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science's 138th annual meeting came from Dr. E. W. Pfeiffer, a zoologist at the University of Montana, and Dr. Arthur H. Westing, biology department chairman at Windham College in Putney, Vt. Their paper was titled "Impact of Modern Weaponry Development on the Human Environment in Indochina."

The two men said they visited Vietnam on a mission for the Scientists Institute for Public Information, a group based in New York whose current president is Margaret Mead, an anthropologist.

'Explosive Bulldozer'
Pfeiffer and Westing said most information about the bomb, referred to as a "commando vault" and "an explosive bulldozer," is not classified but they added that the Air Force was being quiet about its use and does not mention it in its official communications. They quoted a senior 7th Air Force officer, at a briefing in Saigon in August, as saying: "It's such a devastating weapon we hate to give it much publicity."

A film showing the bomb exploding was shown to them, the two men said, but they said the Air Force refused to provide them with a copy.

The scientists said they obtained a copy elsewhere and released two photographs of the mushroom cloud effect of the concussive blast, one at about 30 seconds and the other at about one minute after detonation.

Four or five times during their visit, Pfeiffer and Westing said, they heard military men refer to the weapon, saying: "It's the next best thing to a nuke." In their report, the two scientists said the weapon "provides a concussive blast surpassed only by that of a nuclear bomb."

750-Acre Lethal Zone
Pfeiffer, in an interview before his formal presentation said the bomb creates a "lethal zone" covering 750 acres in which everything, trees, wildlife and any humans who might be there, is killed. An injury zone extends beyond the lethal radius by another 1,500 feet.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said the bomb has been used for some time and there has been no secret about it. He declined to discuss the blast range but said one kilometer is "way off."

The bomb's concussion effects serve to knock down trees and other growth which otherwise would require "the insertion of personnel and equipment prior to helicopter assault," he said.

"According to 7th Air Force sources," the men said, "the blast of a commando vault bomb is of such intensity that all terrestrial and arboreal life within a radius of approximately 3,280 feet are killed outright by the concussive shock."

15,000 Pounds

The weapon is designated the BLU 82B general purpose high explosive concussion bomb, 4.5 feet in diameter, over 11 feet long and weighing 15,000 pounds. Within a thin steel case are 12,600 pounds of a dense blasting agent made up of ammonium nitrate, aluminum powder and a binding agent, the scientists said. The bomb is delivered under ground radar control by a C130E aircraft and is floated to the ground by a parachute from altitudes of 7,000 to 10,000 or more feet, they said.

The two men said it is being used mostly in South Vietnam, but they also said they learned it has been used in Cambodia and Laos. They also said it is used to interdict enemy roads in mountainous areas by creating landslides.

The bomb is detonated just above the ground, simultaneously at both ends to create a radial concussion, which leaves no crater but blows away all trees and other obstructions even in heavy jungle to create a clearing about the size of a football field.

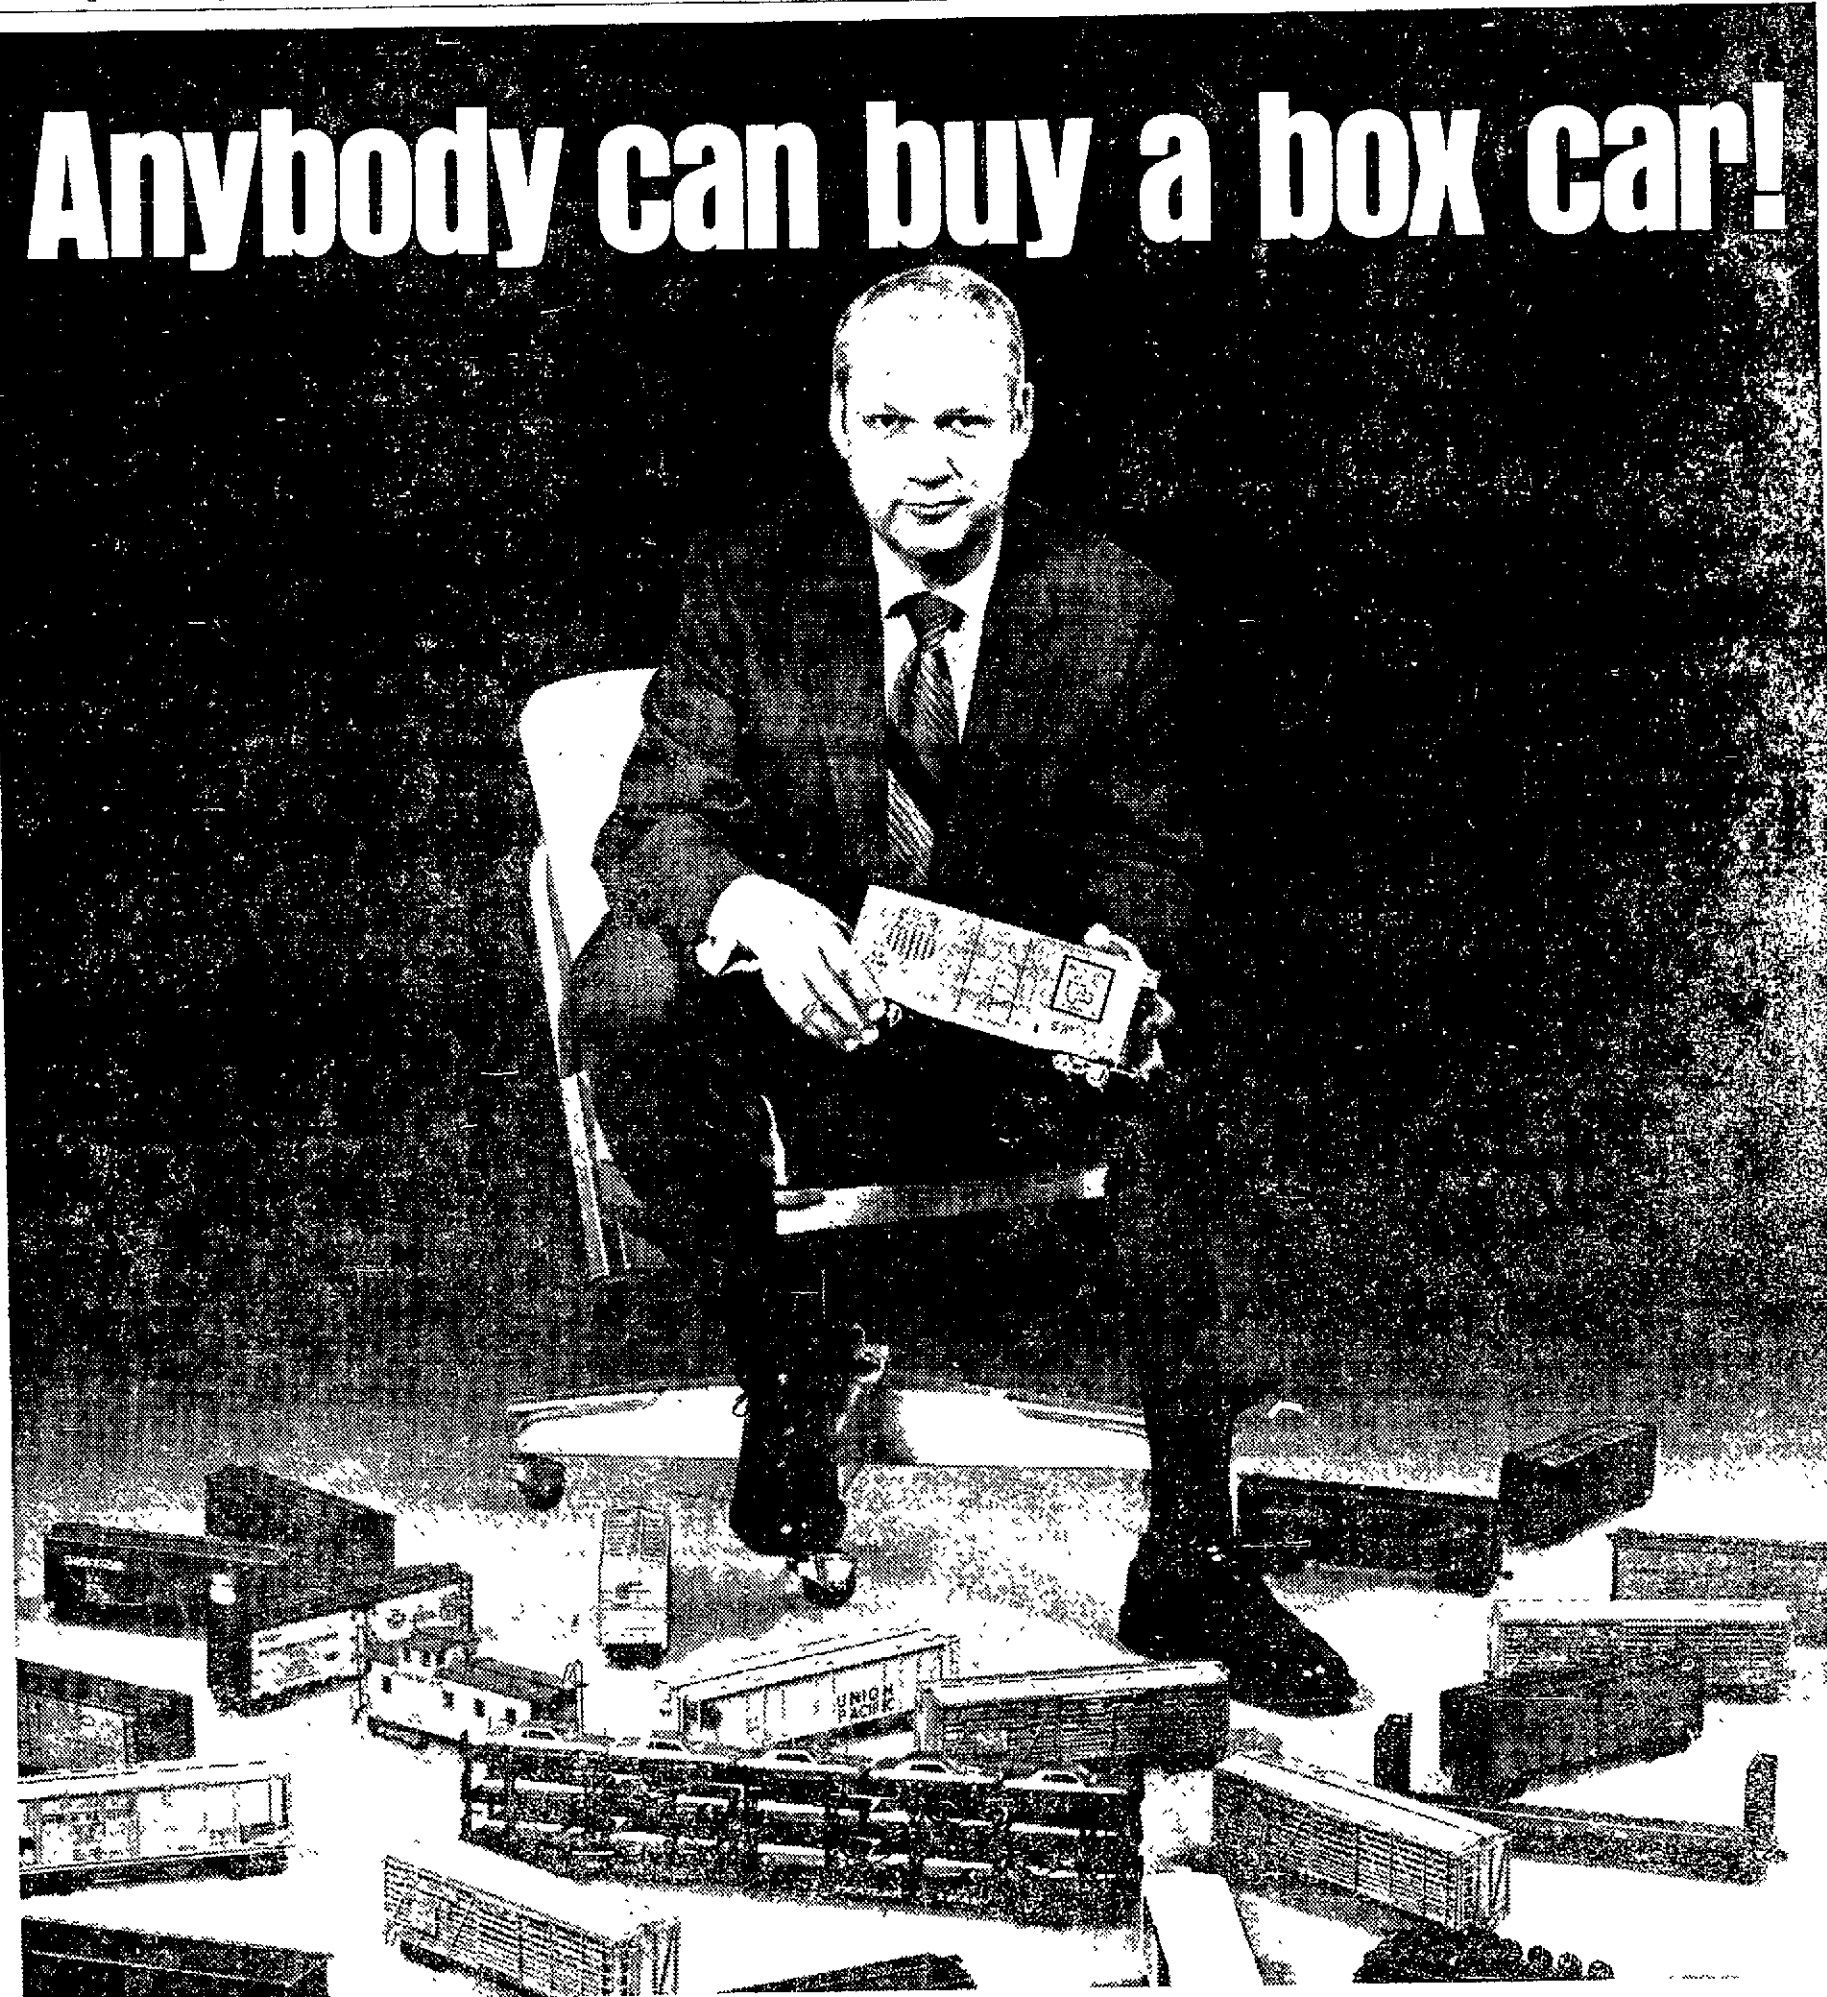

AP Editors Say China No. 1 Story

350 Jets Bomb North Again

Saigon (AP) — U.S. jets hammered targets in North Vietnam Tuesday in the third successive day of raids that have marshaled most available American strike planes in Indochina.

About 350 U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers have attacked North Vietnamese anti-aircraft and supply positions since Sunday.

In South Vietnam, seven U.S. helicopters supporting South Vietnamese ground forces were shot down Monday 27 miles north of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported Tuesday. Ten American crewmen were wounded but none was killed, a spokesman said.

A platoon of about 35 enemy troops apparently had ringed the zone in which the choppers were landing a battalion of government militiamen. Five South Vietnamese troops and three enemy soldiers were reported killed in the fighting.

Planes Converge
The American planes raiding positions in North Vietnam converged from bases in Thailand and carriers in the South China Sea.

The round-the-clock raids were said to be the heaviest against North Vietnam since the halt in full-scale bombing of the North more than three years ago.

The U.S. Command is withholding, until the operation's end, any report of results and any comment on North Vietnamese claims that five F4 Phantom jets had been shot down and that airmen had been killed and captured.

To a Hanoi radio claim that U.S. planes strafed a hospital and other populated areas, a command spokesman responded: "We never comment on diatribes."

Informants said President Nixon ordered the attacks in retaliation for the downing of a half-dozen American planes in the past 2½ weeks and as a warning to Hanoi not to push the United States too far.

The U.S. Command has termed the strikes "protective reaction" against threats to U.S. troops in South Vietnam. But the more immediate effect, if the raids succeed, would be to choke Hanoi's stretched-out supply lines into Laos and Cambodia as well as South Vietnam.

In Laos, where U.S. air support failed to keep Communist-led forces from retaking the strategic Plain of Jars last week, a Defense Ministry spokesman belatedly reported another setback for government forces.

Gen. Thongphanh Knoksy said North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao troops overran hilltop positions to the south and west of the northern Lao-tian plain over the weekend. There were no casualty reports.

Other informed sources said irregular troops supported by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had withdrawn from around Saravane in southern Laos in favor of "mobile tactics."

In South Vietnam, where battlefield action was reported light and scattered, the U.S. Command reported that U.S. troop strength in the country dropped by 4,200 last week and announced stand-down of more U.S. Army units totalling 2,090 men.

Last week's cut brought the American troop level to 158,300, leaving fewer than 20,000 men to be withdrawn to meet the Feb. 1 total of 129,000 set by Nixon.

YSA To Dog Trails Of Candidates

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Two Young Socialist Alliance leaders promised Monday that their members would dog the campaign trails of major party candidates for president, challenging them to debate YSA's leftist candidates.

Frank Boehm, 21, of New York City, YSA national chairman, and Cindy Jaquith, 24, of Boston, national campaign coordinator, outlined the plan at a news conference to kick off the YSA national convention which was to open Tuesday in the Music Hall.

Organizers hope to draw 1,500 to 2,000 people.

"Wherever McGovern, Muskie, Nixon or Humphrey is, Young Socialists will also be, challenging them to debate our candidates," Miss Jaquith said.

The YSA is supporting for the presidency and vice presidency the two candidates of the Socialist Workers Party, Linda Jenness and Andres Pulley, both in their 20s, she said.

Band Against War Continues To Occupy Statue Of Liberty

New York (AP) — Sixteen antiwar militants occupied the Statue of Liberty for a second day Monday, waving in their demands upon the government and facing possible court ouster. They were cheered on by a message from the Viet Cong.

At one point, the group announced they were prepared to hold the historic monument until New Year's Eve unless President Nixon set a definite date for withdrawal of American forces from Southeast Asia.

Later, however, a lawyer said the demonstrators apparently had abandoned the withdrawal demand. Instead, they insisted their antiwar message be carried overseas by news media to servicemen in Vietnam.

"The most important thing . . . is to get their message out to their brothers and sisters in Southeast Asia," their lawyer added. But he said the government had informed him it had no control over the news media.

Offer Rejected
The 16 were reported to have rejected a compromise plan offered by the National Park Service — that they continue their demonstration in the area outside the statue itself, and leave the monument to sightseers.

The government sought a federal court eviction order and District Judge Lawrence W. Pierce scheduled a hearing for Tuesday.

In an affidavit, the Park Service said hundreds of Christmas Week sightseers were being blocked by the demonstration from visiting the statue, and added: "Many of these visitors will be in New York for only a few days, and hence the activity of the defendants may irreparably prevent them from seeing the Statue of Liberty."

Coast Guardsmen and city police stood by, and a score of riot-trained Park Service police were flown in from Washington.

Meanwhile, the demonstrators hung an American flag upside down from the crown of the statue, calling it a distress signal to indicate that "at this moment, liberty certainly is in distress."

The demonstration was sponsored by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

A VVAW spokesman said all the men at the national monument were Vietnam veterans except for one ex-Coast Guardsman and an announcer for radio station WBAI.

It was one of three nonviolent takeovers of public property sponsored by the VVAW on both coasts.

Twenty-three men and two women occupied Betsy Ross' historic home in Philadelphia, a tiny, three-story building where she fashioned the first American flag.

Authorities were forced to herd tourists out, while the demonstrators took to the roof to read a statement to onlookers. But after about 45 minutes police entered the building and the demonstrators left peacefully.

At California's Travis Air Force Base, 18 Army enlisted men only hours back from Vietnam took over the floor of an observation ward for 10 hours to protest their enforced treatment for what the military said was opium use.

'Not Addicts'

Their VVAW spokesman, Mike Oliver, said the demonstrators were not addicts and sought release from the hospital and discharge from the Army, as well as amnesty for "all military people strung out on drugs." The Army aid the protesters ended their occupation and agreed to return to military hospitals near their homes for treatment.

The Statue of Liberty was a gift to the United States from France in 1884. From foundation to upthrust torch, it towards 305 feet and dominates New York's upper bay. At its base is graven Emma Lazarus' famous poem, with the words, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free. . ."

Storm Hits So. California; Many Motorists Stranded

Los Angeles (AP) — A storm battered Southern California Monday with snow that stranded hundreds of motorists on a mountain pass highway and with coastal rain that triggered flooding and mudslides.

Road travel between Los Angeles and San Francisco was impossible, with snow at one spot blocking one mountain pass and mudslides and flooding snarling another key point.

As many as 300 cars were stuck on the Interstate 5 pass through the Tehachapi Mountains, which divide Northern and Southern California, officials said.

Coastal mudslides triggered by heavy rains sent seas of mud through the 6,000-population community of Carpinteria, forcing evacuation in one area.

There were no reports of serious injury Monday, although storm conditions were blamed as a contributing factor to the state's 67 Christmas weekend traffic deaths.

Flooding closed countless streets and roads and snarled rush hour traffic on Los Angeles freeways, and in such communities as Oxnard, 60 miles north of Los Angeles, some residents even sandbagged their houses against overflowing city streets.

The coastal storm dumped several inches of rain and more than a foot of snow on a several-hundred mile stretch of Southern California.

Butz Opposes Lowering $55,000-A-Crop Ceiling

Washington (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he opposes any reduction in the current $55,000-per-acre ceiling on government subsidies to big farmers, although he plans to vigorously enforce the current limit.

He said any reduction in the ceiling might discourage big farmers from participating in surplus control programs.

"There are some abuses," Butz said. "There is some chiseling, as I suppose there inevitably will be in any program of this kind. As long as I am secretary, I'm going to do everything I possibly can to reduce that chiseling to a minimum. I'd like to see it out completely."

As for the proposed 25% increase in grain supports, Butz said: "I hope the Senate, in its wisdom, decides not to accept this. And I hope that . . . farmers . . . will get in touch with their senator and say let's give the (existing farm program) a good chance to operate. And this legislation is not the way to do it."

Butz urged the Senate to kill the price support bill, already passed by the House, on grounds it would "wreck" farm export prospects and the government's farm surplus support program.

Chile Records Earth Tremor

Santiago, Chile (AP) — An earth tremor shook central Chile on Monday afternoon, but no injuries or damage were reported.

The movement in Santiago registered 3 on a 12-point scale. The reading was 4 in Los Angeles, a small city 50 miles north-east of the capital.

No Draft In January, Laird Says

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird announced Monday there will be no military draft in January and possibly none until April.

Laird said he would not project the draft for all of 1972, but his announcement indicated the 1972 draft may be below the 76,000 men drafted in 1962, the lowest since the Korean War.

"We're in a position where we will not have any draft calls in January," Laird told newsmen at a year-end news conference, "and possibly not for the first quarter."

He said four factors will determine the draft call for 1972. Primarily, he said, they will be the effect of a new $3 billion military pay raise and getting more volunteers and retaining them as well as men already in the armed services.

Laird said two other factors involved are U.S. withdrawal from the Vietnam war and the congressional mandate that the Army be cut to 892,000 men by mid-1972.

Egyptian Says War Inevitable

... ISRAELI HOPES 1972 BRINGS PEACE SETTLEMENT

By United Press International
Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad told a conference of Arab foreign ministers Monday night that war with Israel is "inevitable" and there "can be no alternative to a military settlement" of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Agency (MENA) said Riad made the statement at a 150-minute closed session, which was restricted to the chiefs of the delegations attending the Arab League conference on the banks of the Nile.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has said several times that a solution to the Mideast conflict, either peaceful or by war, must come by the end of this year.

Earlier, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the Jewish nation was optimistic that in 1972 there could be a negotiated peace settlement in the Middle East conflict.

The news agency said Riad told delegates, "It has been clear since 1967 that the battle is inevitable and there can be no alternative to a military settlement."

"It has become clear to world public opinion that Israel will not withdraw peacefully from occupied Arab lands because Israel seeks expansion," he added, according to the news agency.

Eban told a news conference, "I can only express hope that 1972 will be what 1971 was not, a year of negotiation. This is the keynote of the Israeli government policy."

Eban said the first month of the year could be crucial to the Middle East. He said that by mid-January both the U.S. effort to achieve a partial agreement to reopen the Suez Canal and the mission of United Nations peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring could come to a head.

"We expect to be told by Jarring whether, and how, his mission can be revived," Eban said. "And from the United States Israel expects clarification on whether the canal negotiations would be free and without conditions."

A House-Senate conference report on Agriculture Department appropriations, issued last July 22, said the practice of giving cash change to low-income people "threatens the success of the food stamp program and should be stopped."

Cash Change Won't Be Given Food Stamp User

Washington (AP) — The Agriculture Department heeding Capitol Hill, decided to kill a year-old rule allowing food stamp spenders to collect up to 49 cents in cash in change when they turn in coupons for groceries.

The decision, announced Monday, will take effect March 1. Food stamp spenders then will start getting smaller-denomination store tokens or credit slips when they have change coming.

A year ago, the department began letting low-income people receive cash in change when they traded stamps at food stores. They also were allowed to pay for returnable bottle deposits with stamps. That practice, too, will be ended.

Thousands of duck and wading birds, migrating from Russian and northern European breeding grounds, are now wintering on the Thames, where only a few years ago there were few birds, aside from swans and gulls feeding on sewage.

Once-Filthy Thames River Clean Again

London (AP) — The Thames once again is attracting birds — tens of thousands of them, flocking to river banks cleansed by a thorough antipollution job.

Ornithologists report sighting species of duck and wading bird on the Thames' upper estuary where they haven't appeared for generations.

Coupled with this is the reappearance of carp in the Thames, and the hope that some fish of yesteryear will once again swim along the river into the heart of London.

"The whole estuary is coming to life again," says Peter Grant of the London Natural History Society. "The Port of London Authority's pollution efforts have made a fantastic difference."

Shelduck and pintail ducks — for 70 years a rarity in London — are now counted in the hundreds, says Grant. The heron has returned to Regent's Park, due to the Surrey Dock closure, and skylarks have bred successfully in inner London for the first time in memory.

Plans are now being made to take bird-lovers on boat trips along the Thames for what Grant calls "some of the most exciting birdwatching to be had anywhere in southeast Britain."

Heavy fines have cut down oil spillage into the Thames, while the closure of the Surrey Docks in London have produced much improved conditions for birds.

One duck species now cuts short its migration to Africa and spends winter near Thamesmead, a new town on the river.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

She Refuses To Shield Children From Noisy Parental Squabbles

By ROBERT PETERSON
Question: — "Our daughter, 42, always had a temper. She wants things her way and heaven help those who cross her. What's more, she married an Italian who's just as excitable. Result: fights all the time. Fortunately, we live in the next state and don't hear the fireworks. But on a visit last month we were shocked how they screamed and yelled at each other in front of their children, ages four, seven and nine. I claim it's wrong for kids to observe bickering between parents. But daughter claims it's wrong to shield children from the truth. What do you say?"

Answer: — She's probably right. Your daughter and her husband can't change their dispositions, so the youngsters will simply have to adjust. Kids have a remarkable gift for adapting and usually take little notice of family squabbling which may shock outsiders. Those with squabbling, temperamental natures take emotional explosions in stride.

Question: — "You said recently that May-December romances often work. Ours did until a couple years ago. I was 26 when I married my husband who was 36. We both like going out at night and were paged alike for the next dozen years. But now I'm 40 and he's 70. He's still healthy but last month he retired from real estate work and announced he was fed up with social life and wasn't having any more parties or late nights. His idea of a good time is to putter in the garden or basement all day, watch television and drink beer at night until 10, and then lights out. He says I don't have to babysit with him, but what kind of life is this for me?"

Answer: — You married him for better or worse, so you'll have to take the lumps. See if you can't get him interested in taking some trips. This may rouse him from the torpor retirement seems to have brought. And since he says he doesn't need a babysitter, do as millions of wives of older men

Robert Brooks Is Sentenced On Assault Charge

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings Monday sentenced a 23-year-old Lincoln man to from five to seven years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a felony assault charge.

Robert Brooks, of 889 No. 26th has pleaded guilty Nov. 23 to assaulting Christian Anton Schmidt, 86, of 2546 W last Feb. 6 with intent to rob.

Mr. Schmidt was found dead in his home two days after the alleged incident in which authorities say some money and other personal property were taken.

Thurston County Probe Is Shifted To Local Level

State Indian Commissioner Robert Mackey said Monday an investigation by his office into Winnebago Indian complaints about Thurston County Sheriff Clyde Storje has been turned over to a county-level group.

Mackey had been commissioned by Gov. J. J. Exon to head the investigation into the Winnebago grievances.

He said of all the agencies from which he had enlisted aid only two had replied which, Mackey said, points to "a blockage of information coming in my direction."

Mackey expressed confidence that Exon will bring about improvements if they are needed. "The Winnebago Indians feel they will probably have to pursue a retrocession-type of protection for their own civil rights like the Omaha tribe has at Macy," Mackey said.

He said he personally believed retrocession was the solution to the problem.

do — continue to maintain a social life by going out alone or with other women.

Question: — "The other morning I watched a dozen older people bicycling through the park with red noses and scarves trailing in the wind. Trailing behind was an eight-year-old boy pedaling a small bike. 'Grandma's baby-sittin' me,' he explained, 'and keepin' her date with the Senior Cyclers at the same time.' Is this progress?"

Answer: — It certainly is. Your story indicates that modern oldsters are stepping out of stereotypes which have long confined them to rockers and sun porches. They're discovering and demonstrating that there's a lot more fun, imagination and vitality in the later years than tradition has led us to believe.

Question: — "I've gone to the same barber for years and last week when I went in for a trim he looked at my balding dome, sat down in the chair, handed me the clippers, and said, 'There's nothing left in your allalfa field, Joe. You might as well work on mine.' Is this humor?"

Answer: — Well, it gave me a chuckle. I suspect most barbers welcome customers with sparse hair since they can make full fare in half the time.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A Texas lawsuit against local property tax support of schools has added further fuel to the nation's search for educational equality. The Texas case was much like one recently decided for California in which a court determined that local property tax support of schools was unconstitutional.

The ruling in both states stems from the fact that local school districts have differing tax bases. That is, some districts have a big property tax base while others have a small property tax base.

The conclusion is that children in different taxing districts do not receive the same education because the base of support for the districts is not the same. What was decided in California and Texas might well apply to Nebraska, if the issue were ever tested here in the courts or if those two cases are finally made the law of the land due to U.S. Supreme Court affirmation.

There is no question that the varying school districts in Nebraska, a record high number of them, have varying tax bases. If the tax base is a legitimate measure of quality of education, then there is educational inequality in Nebraska.

The state constitution in Nebraska does make primary and secondary education a matter of state responsibility. But most states have operated under the theory that they carry out that responsibility by establishing standards of excellence that must be met by local districts.

Obviously, that theory has gone down the drain in the states of California and Texas. The theory is one that a lot of people have not subscribed to in the past, regardless of its legality.

There really is not much of any practical way in which a state can establish standards that would guarantee equality. We are doubtful, even, that equality of the tax base would guarantee equality in the classroom because there are so many intangibles involved in the process of education.

Education in Nebraska has been hung up on two factors—size and money. Consolidation of school districts has been fought because it has generally meant an increase in taxes for some people and because it has involved the transportation of students over long distances.

But you cannot have your cake and eat it, too. The state could equalize the tax base by assuming total financial support of local education but it could not do this without some other changes.

Obviously, it would be an injustice to shift to such a system while continuing the inefficiency of small school districts. The change in support alone would solidify the present scattered district system we have in this state.

It would mean that the small, inefficient district would remain forever because there was no financial problem to its existence. Possibly, it could provide equal education but it might do so at a vastly higher price than accomplished by many other districts.

State support of all costs could not be based on per-pupil enrollments, as this would do nothing per se for equality. Rather, such support would have to be based on minimum standards or requirements in terms of physical plant, equipment, curriculum, faculty, etc.

But the same standards might be met in one district at a cost of $50 per pupil while another district met the standard at a cost of $100 per pupil. There would be at that point a serious inequality among taxpayers and it would not be long before such a situation was also tested in the courts.

Additionally, there are many school districts in the land under the same tax base but which still have schools that are not considered equal in all ways. There are some who believe that there are better schools than others within the single Lincoln School District, for instance.

Equality in education and in all things is a lofty and laudible objective but it remains a theory far removed from the practical realities of the day. We are not likely to reach the objective in the very near future.

POW Wives Sent Nixon Cards Back

WASHINGTON — The wives of some American POW's in Vietnam have returned the Christmas cards mailed to them by President Nixon in protest against his refusal to set a withdrawal date for all U.S. troops. . . . An anonymous mail attack on GOP maverick presidential campaigner Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., was the work of 1964 Goldwater press chief, Paul Wagner, a respected Washington public relations man. McCloskey tracked him down through the postage meter number. . . . Justice Department clerks and middle-level officials became certain Attorney General John Mitchell was leaving when they learned of his top subordinates' plans to make a plaque for him.

An Army National Guard unit held a Christmas party last week during one of its mandatory training sessions. The featured attraction, however, wasn't Santa Claus but a hard-core stag movie.

This unusual Yuletide drill occurred at Company B, 1st. Batt., 115th Infantry, in Catonsville, Md. After three hours of military spit-and-polish, the Guardsmen retired to beer and pretzels and a pornographic movie that would make a Dancé blush.

A secret report from the U.S. consulate in Nassau warns that American racketeers "may gain a hold over the Bahamas government. . . . Pressure has increased on its leaders to accept assistance from criminal sources seeking to establish their operations here. . . .

Recently there has been evidence suggesting that (government) leaders are getting criminal financing and are playing politics with security at the casinos, thereby undermining the confidence of U.S. enforcement agencies on which U.S.-Bahamian cooperation depends to counter organized crime."

Environmental Protection Administrator Bill Ruckelshaus has a Youth Advisory Board to give him the young folks' viewpoint on ecology and related matters. The youth board, in turn, has sought the advice of the chief lobbyist for Procter and Gamble, whose phosphate detergents are a major cause of water pollution. He is Bryce Harlow, who used to be President Nixon's chief lobbyist. Spokesman John Shiner took pains to explain to us that the youth board merely wanted to hear what Harlow, representing the phosphate polluters, thought about ecology.

Ignore House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills's announcement that he has lost interest in the White House. Mills is running just as hard as ever. At the time he made his announcement of his unavailability, he was preparing to speak in Texas, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Colorado, and Wyoming.

This is unusual behavior for a man who says he has neither the time nor the money to run for the White House. What's more, Mills's office privately concedes that he is not turning down any political speaking dates.

Ringing In The New Year

Seizing The Moment

Time Magazine Sunday named President Nixon as "man of the year" for 1971 and it was a choice few could quarrel with. We don't know the entire list of individuals or groups of people that Time's editors considered, but for individual impact over a year's time, Nixon had to be the one.

His initiatives leading to the 1972 summit meetings and his decisions affecting the domestic economy and world trade were historic actions. Perhaps they didn't square with everyone's thinking and perhaps they will not bear the hoped-for fruit, as we observed last week. And traces of the 'old Nixon' still show through when the chance for political gain is on the line.

Still, Nixon took some giant steps in 1971 and the potential is there for lasting benefits to all the world's people.

"I am convinced," he said in an interview with the magazine, "that the United States right now is on the brink of exercising its power to do good in the world, such good as never has been done in the history of civilization because we now can muster our moral force, our economic force and we, of course, have the military power to back up our words."

Our aim is to build a structure of peace such as we could not dream of after World War II," Nixon said. The time for such an undertaking was not right during the Eisenhower and Kennedy years, the President said, but "now the time may have come and we must seize the moment—seize the moment in our relationships with the super powers."

There is something challenging, certainly, almost grandiose in what the President said. But Nixon has taken steps to back up those words. In seeking to arrive at a better balance in relationships with our allies and in opening the door to China, President Nixon deserves anybody's "man of the year" accolade.

Support For Fourth Party?

In a weekend interview, the young executive director of the newly-formed National Youth Caucus, which will be active in the process of selecting delegates to the national nominating conventions, expressed two viewpoints that are at odds with what most people might think young Americans are thinking.

For one thing, the caucus' Diane Draper believes that President Nixon can be beaten in his own party. If either or both Rep. Paul McCloskey or Rep. John Ashbrook do well against Nixon in New Hampshire Draper says, other major Republicans would be convinced that they would stand a chance against the President and would enter the race. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California would be a likely candidate, he believes.

That's optimism—or pessimism, depending on your persuasion. We don't think there is much likelihood of the President's re-election bid being frustrated from within the GOP.

Draper also feels that the nation's 25.1 million potential new voters will support any Democratic candidate against the President except Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington or Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. We can't see youth getting really excited about any number of other Democratic contenders, except for McGovern or Kennedy, but Draper says youthful voters will not desert the major party ranks for a fourth party candidate.

We hope it works out that way, that the vast majority of new voters decide to make a positive rather than a negative contribution to the election process and that they will not sit out the election no matter who is nominated by either party.

ANTHONY LEWIS

London Remains Small Parts Of Big Whole; Street Markets Example Of Village Flavor

LONDON—Off Essex Road in the London borough of Islington there is a small street where flowers and fruit and vegetables are sold from barrows. The flower man is George Robertson, 60 years old, well-weathered face, not too many teeth left, cloth cap pulled down hard.

The day before Christmas, there he was a natty blue scarf wound round to keep off the damp. His barrow was piled up with holly and pansies and mistletoe and bunches of tender-looking anemones. On the pavement around were Christmas trees.

"Merry Christmas, George."

"Ta, Duck."

"Keep well, George."

One after another, he and the passersby had a word.

As he dug into a large box from Covent Garden to find yellow fritas, a customer asked how long he had been there.

"Oh, 200 years," he said. "All the stalls used to be on Essex Road—my mother's father told me about being there before the tram line. They moved in here when one of the men from the stalls was killed by a motor car."

George Robertson is not by any means the only person whose family had had a stall at the same corner of Islington for generations. Down the road there is Chapel Market, jammed with stalls of tropical food and dresses and cut-rate cosmetics and birds and keys and whelks, as well as flowers and fruit. The lettuce woman—she sells pickled beets too—says her barrow has been in the family for 100 years and more.

The sense of community is one unmakeable quality of those street markets. People know who they are and seem happy being that. They are part of something small, definable, alive but in important ways unchanging.

The other outstanding quality is the amount of human contact. The air is full of greetings, little endearments. As she sells two pounds of new potatoes, Rosie Winks and slips a sprig of mint into the shopping basket. At the pub, a fancy Victorian replica called the Camden Head, there are gentle sallies over the Guinness tap and the hot sausage plate. People talk to each other.

London has big department stores, too, and Bon Street shops with weary salesgirls. But everyone who knows this city recognizes that characteristic flavor found, among many places, in the Islington Street markets. It is the flavor of a village.

"Contact is what the village is all about." So wrote Anthony Bailey in a book published in America last summer, "In the Village." It is a perceptive and engaging look at a place that Bailey loves for its intimacy. Stonington, Conn., pop. 1,622.

In Stonington, people see each other hammering shingles, or they meet in the shops and streets, or they help when someone's sewer pipe backs up. "We can't avoid people," Bailey says. Community arises from the very scale of living, organically, unlike the suburb where contact has to be artificially created in coffee visits and organization meetings and may become a resented intrusion.

There is a danger of romanticized villages. Often they deny privacy, a social blessing as much to be treasured as community. That is why all those millions have come to New York from Dubuque over the years, welcoming anonymity.

Nor is there any guarantee of personal tranquility in village life. That comes from within, and there is misery in villages as in cities. Anthony Bailey remarks that at any one time, three or four people from Stonington are likely to be off in a nearby mental hospital.

And then he dedicates his book to John and Mary Updike, reminding us of the village that

Society's Fault

Lincoln, Neb. When society and domestic courts in any state allow men to relinquish their voluntary responsibilities as husband and father, they must allow women to relinquish their responsibility as mother and accept the responsibility of those children as wards of the court.

Domestic court decisions prevent the majority of divorced women with children from being conscientious mothers by awarding fewer dollars than are needed to survive.

Society condemns these women welfare recipients but does not encourage nor support legislation to change divorce and support laws.

Society must therefore accept, without condemning those problems which are synonymous with the low morality accepted today.

KATHRYN L. WESTWOOD

Drama Critics

Scottsbluff, Neb. Of all the newspapers in the nation, The Lincoln Star is perhaps the luckiest. Why, what other newspaper has a throng of drama critics who review theatrical productions without the expense and inconvenience of actually going to see the show? Even the New York Times cannot claim such an asset.

I have attended the performance of the musical, "Hair," three times, in New York and in Washington. Before I am accused by The Star's drama critics of being a voyeur, I will make the point that at no time does sexual intercourse, simulated or actual, become a part of the script. Not only does the female cast remain unviolated, but the American flag serves as an orgy mattress for none.

I suppose the nudist scene could be eliminated, though that would be like cementing a

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 4-year-old grandson showed a tendency to be left-handed at about 2. For a while there was a definite preference; now he uses either hand almost equally well. Probably eats better with his left hand, but has done it more. He's going to nursery school and uses scissors, colors, etc., and I see he shifts from one hand to the other. If encouraged, I believe he would soon be right-handed. His parents have never done anything one way or the other. They fear some emotional problem might develop from interference. They feel he should just use his hands as he wishes. best way to handle this? — Mrs. L. F.

It's true that being forced to do something that just doesn't come naturally can put unnecessary pressure on a child, and can, indeed, sometimes result in emotional turbulence.

Updike painted in "couples." His Tarbox was a purgatory of empty lives, or so it seemed to some. But on Christmas Eve in London, it does seem clear that most human beings want to be part of a community small enough to be within their understanding: a village in that sense. In the long-run, anonymity is not enough; privacy has to be balanced by a sense of belonging.

One of the great social challenges in an age of crushing technology is to restore community. Things are getting bigger in business and politics and education and so many other aspects of life: somehow we have to learn to make them smaller at the same time, by breaking large organizations down into parts encompassable by man.

As cities go, London has done that tolerably well. The whole is split into boroughs that have real functions, and into neighborhoods that keep their own character. Critics rightly complain about the intrusion of inhuman high-rise buildings and sterile redevelopment, but to a happy extent London remains a collection of villages within a cosmopolitan whole.

On Christmas Eve in Islington it is easy to agree with Anthony Bailey: "We should all live in villages."

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

serape to Michelangelo's "David." The nude scene, the only scene in which a member of the cast appears unclothed, lasts 20 seconds. During those 20 seconds, the staging of the performers is such that each is at least three feet from any other member of the cast. Of course, there have been those who, rightfully free of shame of their form and their thoughts, and in fits of revolution, believed the human body to be beautiful. But that seems to be beside the point.

Most drama critics have a keen sense of history and of human nature. Without these insights, they would be ill equipped to tell us what is right and what is wrong. They understand that nothing can be so subversive nor cause so much decay as narrow minds, intolerance, or the hypocrisy of judging that not experienced or understood.

JAMES R. R. PETTILJOHN

The Victory

Hastings, Neb. Now that Christmas has come and gone, Nebraskans will be focusing their attention on the upcoming football tilt between Nebraska and Alabama on New Year's Day. Of course Nebraskans want the victory.

The 1971 Cornhusker squad has been proclaimed the best balanced team that Bob Devaney has yet assembled at Nebraska. He seems to be an artist in this department. This is because he can accept a man on the basis of his performance. He looks beyond such things as color, creed and off-campus conduct. He knows to a degree of perfection the art of teaching teamwork. He doesn't produce stand-outs. He builds teams. This is the secret of his success at Nebraska.

Cornhuskers will have the support of a host of ardent fans in the stands at Miami. They will have the support of a host of TV viewers. They should give the best they have as a team. If, at the end of 60 minutes' playing time, they find their efforts have not been good enough to put a winning score on the board, they can still have the victory by the way they walk off the field.

The only losers will be that "sick" depraved segment of society that is using the contest as a means of swelling its wallet with the unearned buck. We find these unrealists in every community sitting around their coffee cups and trying to predict the outcome of the game before it is played, for the sake of personal gain. These individuals are no good for the state, no good for their communities, no good for themselves.

May 1972 be a year of community "housecleaning." May 1972 be a year of community "rat extermination" (two-legged kind). This done, then Nebraska will be truly No. One.

ORVILLE A. KINDIG

Winter Wonderland

Lincoln, Neb. A recent editorial was lamenting the discontinuance of our heated fountain because of the expense.

I would like to suggest that a better use of our money and our mail would be an annual winter storybook-land. I think Hans Brinker or the Snow Fairy and her palace would be much more appropriate to our winters than a winter fountain.

A combined effort of civic organizations and downtown businessmen could come up with a really fascinating winter wonderland that could be a "must" on every family's list of sights to see in Lincoln and would certainly add to the beauty of the 15th Street area.

MRS. OPAL ROBERTS

This doesn't sound like the leg cramps that are so common (and annoying) in older folks. He's too young. But obviously something is wrong and getting worse. Faulty blood supply in the legs? A possibility. Something deranged in the spine? Also possible.

I rather suspect that there is effective treatment for whatever the cause may turn out to be, but he'll never know until he goes to the doctor and finds out what's wrong. Faulty foot structure, improper footwear, and excessive smoking all are possible causes.

I'd say he'd be smarter to go to the doctor now, instead of waiting for the trouble to get still worse.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Concerning "J.M.," bothered by a burning tongue, I went to my dentist for the same trouble. He assured me all was well in that category. Then I went to my doctor who, knowing my history, could give no reason for it but suggested that perhaps, unknowingly, I was pressing it against the roof of my mouth, through tension. I consciously tried relaxing my tongue (and my nerves) and eventually the burning tongue stopped. Perhaps "J.M." should try it.—N.J.S.

Well, why not try it?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: On the records, has any woman 59 years of age given birth to a baby in Wisconsin?—R.M.

No, nor anywhere else, to my knowledge.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some lady wrote about glaucoma and you said there was a special instrument to test yourself. What is it called and where can I buy one?—Mrs. C.A.

There's some misunderstanding here that had better be cleared up. I said that a special instrument was used, but I did NOT say it was one you could use yourself. You can't.

The instrument is a tonometer—meaning that it measures tension of pressure, in his case, pressure inside the eyeball. Any ophthalmologist would have it, but not all physicians do. However, some of them (other than eye specialists) have learned to use the instrument, to check patients for possible glaucoma.

Note to L.M.: All I can suggest in your case is that you aren't getting real colds after your cold showers, but are having an allergic reaction. Some people, not many perhaps, but some, are sensitive to cold.

Dr. Thosteson is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column, but because of the great number received, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Cuts Favored In Medical Aid

... If Welfare Reductions Needed

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A survey of county welfare offices conducted by a Legislative Researcher indicated Monday that if further reductions were needed the welfare officials would favor cuts in Medical Assistance Payments.

Eldin Ehrlich of the Legislature's fiscal analysis office did the study for the interim study committee on welfare chaired by Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme. The questionnaires went to 88 offices throughout the state, since some offices serve 2 counties. Of these, 61 replied so far.

Notably neither Lancaster nor Douglas County's survey has been received, so Ehrlich noted many of the questions could be changed drastically by their replies. The study is intended to be submitted with the committee's report to the January session of the Legislature.

47 Favor Controls
The officials ranked the Medical Assistance Programs first for any proposed cuts, and 47 favored applying additional controls on the program. When asked if they would favor a percentage reduction on payments as a method of reducing Medical Assistance Payments, 30 administrators answered yes, with 23 dissenting.

Categories for possible cuts included in addition to the medical program were aid to the aged, blind, disabled and dependent children which recently had its payments ratably reduced by Gov. J. James Exon.

When further asked what these controls would mean, 27 administrators considered closer examination of declaration forms as a means to reduce costs.

Nineteen administrators favored limiting services to those eligible.

Delving further into the Medical Assistance Payments program, the questionnaire asked the officials to rank in order their concern for the various facets of the program.

Top Concern Listed

Skilled nursing home costs were the top concern followed by prescription drugs and in-patient hospital charges.

Regarding the August 1 ratable reduction plan in Aid to Dependent Children, 374 case payments were reduced, the administrators said, compared to 96 increases.

Three administrators said the ratable reductions jeopardized the health and well-being of some families, whereas 47 said it did not.

Thirty-four administrators also indicated that if counties were given some latitude in the determination of eligibility of welfare recipients, caseloads would decrease. Only four replied they would increase caseloads.

CASTOFF BOOTS . . . decorate fenceposts on Cogdill Ranch near Chadron.

Fenceposts Record Boys' Growth

Chadron — Rancher John Cogdill has three growing sons who wore out a lot of boots, and hundreds of naked fenceposts sadly in need of ornamentation. So charitably matching the surplus to the need, Cogdill began placing the worn-out boots on the naked fenceposts

That was six years ago or so. Now Cogdill has a whole fence shod in the sharpest Western style, snugly booted in against the harsh Pine Ridge winter weather.

"It was my daughter-in-law's idea," said Cogdill, whose ranch is located along Bordeaux Creek just south of U.S. 20. "She (wife of eldest son Chuck, now a school principal in Wyoming) came off a ranch down at Gordon. I guess she just thought it looked kind of good."

"Whenever we had a kid wear out a pair we just hung 'em on the fence," he explained. "Sometimes they'd rot off and we'd just put 'em back on."

The middle son, Terry, is now a teacher in Morrill, and the youngest, Rex, is a student at Chadron State College. When Rex leaves, Cogdill figures he'll keep hanging up his own worn-out boots.

"We've still got plenty of fenceposts," he said.

Solons Face Resource District Law

By PATRICIA KOZA

United Press International

There's a possibility the final chapter in the stormy history of Nebraska's 1969 natural resource district law could be written by the 1972 Legislature.

But it all depends on whether the lawmakers avoid embroiling themselves in another hassle over the criteria for forming the all-purpose districts which will govern use of the state's natural resources.

With the upcoming session, which begins next Tuesday, constitutionally limited to 60 days, that possibility seems doubtful.

The more likely road seems to be consideration and disposal of several amendments to the partial overhauling of the original plan during the 1971 session.

In that session, the original 33-district plan was scrapped, and — after the lawmakers tried unsuccessfully to set new boundaries themselves — the problem was thrown back into the lap of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

The lawmakers gave the commission until Oct. 1 of this year to work out new district boundaries based on river basin lines. The commission came up with a 24-district plan which — if left alone by the upcoming session — will go into effect July 1, 1972.

Dayle E. Williamson, the commission's executive secretary, said it is incorrectly believed by some that the new plan needs final legislative approval.

"It would take another legislative bill to make further changes in the present plan," he explained.

Williamson also reported the trend is now toward a "let's try it" attitude. He said a series of meetings held in each of the districts indicated the call for changes is dying out.

Instead, he said, there is more agreement the resource district approach may be the best way to tackle the state's resource management problems.

Completion Expected

Williamson added he was confident the Legislature would take care of the bills left over from the 1971 session, which mostly deal with minor changes.

It appears the only stumbling block which could keep the plan from going into effect next July is the uncertainty of the lawmakers themselves.

A United Press International poll showed more than half of the 30 senators responding preferred to await results of a legislative study committee on the matter before forming any opinions on possible changes.

That committee has indicated, however, it may continue its work beyond the upcoming session.

The remaining lawmakers were almost evenly divided over the question of whether more changes are needed to supplement the 1972 revisions. But even those who gave direct "yes" or "no" answers to that question often tagged them with "iffy" qualifications — further indication of a lack of consensus on the matter.

'Complicated Problems'

One senator, Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, called the issue "one of the most complicated problems for the Legislature next year."

"It might be better to postpone this legislation one more year," he added.

A few senators, although agreeing with the basic plan, wanted to see something done about the preservation of Nebraska's vast underground water supply.

According to Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, the supply "is now being abused and exploited to the point that this irreplaceable resource will be exhausted forever in a matter of 10-20 years."

Gunmen Hijack Truck Carrying Load Of Beef

Chicago, Ill. (P) — A Nebraska truck driver told Chicago police Monday morning that four gunmen had abducted him earlier and made off with his truck containing an estimated $40,000 worth of beef.

Robert Hoodek, Norfolk, Neb., said he was abducted as he pulled off the Kennedy Expressway on Chicago's north side. He said he was blindfolded, driven to Schererville, Ind., and released unharmed.

Hoodek told police the four men carried guns and knives. Officials say the truck contained 39,000 pounds of beef.

11 Killed During Holiday Weekend

Compiled From News Wires

Eleven persons lost their lives in Nebraska traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday weekend, nine of them in three triple-fatality collisions.

The deaths raised the state's record 1971 toll to 477, compared with 452 in all of 1968, the previous year.

Three persons were killed Sunday afternoon in a head-on collision on U.S. 183 about two miles north of Ansley.

The victims were identified by the State Patrol as Marilyn J. Pirnie, 25, Weissert; Walter J. Foth, 73, Rural Rt. 2, Ord, and Mr. Foth's wife, Frieda, 67.

There were no other persons in the vehicles, according to the patrol.

The Pirnie auto was southbound and the Foth car northbound, the patrol said.

Officers said the accident occurred on a straight stretch of road.

The other triple fatality accidents occurred Thursday and Friday nights.

On Christmas Eve, three persons died in a two-car accident five miles west of Schuyler on U.S. 30.

The victims were Wilbert F. Miller, 22, Columbus, a passenger in his car, Linda M. Haas, 18, Albion, and the driver of the second car, Lewis Leroy Wilson, 26, Alexandria, Minn.

Three teen-agers were killed Thursday night in a mishap northwest of Red Cloud. They were Joan McCartney, 17, Lebanon, Kan.; Rhonda Moser, 16, Smith Center, Kan., and Jerry Johnson, 16, Red Cloud.

Clarence Hollowell, 48, Omaha, was killed Friday night when he was struck as he walked along Interstate 80 near 42nd St. in Omaha.

Lilly Purvey, 77, Omaha, died Christmas Day of injuries suffered the night before in a two-car crash in West Omaha.

Death Added To Toll

The name of an Omaha man who died in an Oct. 19 accident has been added to the state's traffic fatality toll, state accident records bureau director Tom Ryan reported Monday.

Ryan said the victim, Ira Whitehead, 60, Omaha, died Oct. 19 of injuries suffered earlier in the day in a one-car mishap at the intersection of Farnam and 34th streets in Omaha.

Ryan said initial information had indicated Whitehead died due to a heart attack, but that subsequent information showed the death was due to injuries suffered in the accident.

Millions Marry

Tokyo (P) — A report by the Ministry of Health and Welfare estimated that 1,085,000 Japanese couples were married in 1971 and 102,000 were divorced. Exact figures will be published in mid-1972.

Oil Production In Panhandle Is Off By Nearly 50 Barrels Each Month

Sidney (P) — The search for oil in the Nebraska Panhandle, where a fevered pitch of excitement followed Ohio Oil Co.'s discovery of the Mary Egging No. 1 in 1949, continues but production is on a steady decline.

Seven production discoveries were made last month, said Jack Fish of the Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission here, and "there is a whole board full of planned exploration coming up."

But despite the six rigs presently drilling in the Panhandle and the figure exploration plans, average production continues to drop nearly 50 barrels a month. Some months show a production increase of 250 to 300 barrels, he said, as new wells go on the line but as more fields are dismantled overall production continues its long decline.

A Peak in 1962

Production and exploration increased steadily through the 1950s and early 1960s following the Mary Egging discovery, with activity reaching its peak in 1962.

Monthly production climbed to a peak of 22,167,680 barrels in May 1962.

Since 1962, production has declined on an average of about 4 1/2 a month, Fish said.

As fields were pumped out, water flooding was used to get secondary recovery. Now as those fields go dry, they are being closed down and new discoveries aren't heavy enough to offset the decline.

Two new fields were discovered in November. Sundance Oil Co. ran pipe on its No. 1 Wiegand, a wildcat 10 miles west and four miles north of Dalton in southern Morrill County.

The other new field opened was discovered by Vander and Couch, which ran pipe on its No. 1 Kohn southwest of Gering in Scott's Bluff County.

Although it was completed this month, Cullum Exploration is "quite proud" of its No. 1 Nightingale, six miles northeast of Sidney.

Tommy Jordan completed his No. 1 Borchert west of Gurley in the Jormar field and Marathon Oil Co. set pipe on a well southwest of Dix in an extension of the Kenton field.

Exeter Drilling and Exploration Co. completed two gas wells considered outposts wells to the parent Ruhlberg Field, northwest of Sidney. And pipe was set on an outpost well in the Everton Field in Kimball County.

"These little finds are not hurting us any," said Fish. "However, they don't make enough oil to halt our continued decline in production."

Heckled Humphrey Signs Paper Of Young Scientists

Philadelphia (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., signed his name Monday to a statement which John Froines of the Chicago 7 said he drew up on behalf of a radical group of young scientists calling for major steps to end the war in Indochina.

The statement, which Froines said would become the beginning of a national petition campaign, calls for the setting of a date for the total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam, the cessation of all bombing and the removal of support from the regime of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Humphrey's action came late Monday afternoon, after a group of shouting, jeering young people disrupted a speech by the former vice president and probable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

During the incident a few paper and cardboard airplanes floated onto the stage — one large cardboard plane floating past his right shoulder — and one youth hurled a tomato which struck Humphrey's lecture stand.

In a question session after

Breeders Plan Annual Meeting

The Seward County Breeders and Feeders Association will hold its annual meeting at 12:00 noon Thursday Jan. 6 at the Jones Bank Auditorium in Seward. A free soup luncheon has been planned.

The program will include a water resource film, "Living With Nebraska's Water."

A free membership in the organization will be given as a door prize. An election of officers for 1972 is a part of the meeting.

Humphrey's address, Froines, also a leader of the May Day demonstration in Washington and a longtime antiwar activist, challenged the former vice president to sign the statement.

Following the interruptions to Humphrey's speech, plainclothes policemen took two young men from the auditorium after a brief tussle.

Standing on a platform festooned with signs saying "Humphrey Wanted for Murder: Rape! Genocide!" the senator finished his nearly 40-minute speech, interrupted occasionally with shouts from the audience of "genocide," "you flunkie creep" and "Humphrey, you're boring."

Soldier Shot In Front Of TV Cameras

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A British soldier was shot down in front of television cameras Monday night as gunfire and bomb blasts signaled the end of an unofficial Christmas truce in Northern Ireland.

The three-day lull was over, and battle was joined again in Belfast and other centers of this chaotic British province. Snipers opened up on firemen trying to put out a blaze set off by a bomb at Woolworth's store in Newry, County Down, but the shots missed.

In the most dramatic incident, a British television crew filmed a soldier standing guard over an army officer being interviewed in the streets of Belfast.

Two shots rang out and the soldier fell with a bullet in his chest. The crew filming the interview immediately switched the cameras from the officer to the wounded man writhing on the sidewalk.

In his speech Humphrey called for a "strong new commitment" to find a way for science and politics to cooperate to achieve peaceful change at home and abroad.

The young people identified themselves as members of a radical group of students and academics called Science for the People. A spokesman for the group said about 30 members were there out of a total audience of 500.

Most of the audience response to Humphrey took the form of applause and cheers.

Officials of the association at first wanted the signs taken down from the stage before Humphrey spoke, but finally the association's retiring president, Athelstan Spilhaus, said, "Nobody's worried about these childish signs, least of all the senator."

HHH Unperturbed Humphrey appeared unperturbed throughout the event and repeatedly chided his hecklers for refusing to discuss their disagreements without shouting.

When the tomato was thrown and the two young men escorted out, Humphrey called out to the police officers, "May I say that the Minnesota Twins could use a good pitcher."

He added "Don't give the media a field day."

10,000 Bibles Going To Cuba

Santiago, Chile (UPI) — Chilean Roman Catholic Cardinal Raul Silva Henriquez said Monday he is shipping 10,000 copies of the Holy Bible to Communist Cuba at Premier Fidel Castro's "personal request."

The prelate said Castro made the request after he had presented the Cuban with a copy of the Bible during his recent 25-day state visit to Chile.

Popular With Taxpayers

Superior Court Judge George Francis of Long Beach, Calif., specializes in out-of-court settlement of civil suits. In the past 10 years, he's never presided over a trial, but he has arranged settlement of an estimated 4,000 cases. In them, taxpayers have been saved $20 million in court costs.

Budget Committee Rapped By Voc-Tech School Official

A vocational-technical school board member has suggested the Legislature's Budget Committee has "an apparent lack of understanding" of the needs of vocational-technical education in Nebraska.

Verne R. Moseman of Grand Island, president of the board of governors of Central Nebraska Technical College at Hastings, said he was disappointed over the committee's recent slash in the state aid request of the new system of technical community colleges.

The budget committee is recommending to the Legislature that the system receive $17 million — half the $34 million requested.

Moseman said after many years of progress toward "filling the education gap between four-year academic training and two-year occupational (training), we seem to be on the verge of taking a giant leap backward."

He contended this was "due to an apparent lack of understanding of the problem by the appropriations committee."

Ample Home Loan Money Predicted

Washington (AP) — Home buyers can look forward to an ample supply of mortgage money at attractive rates in 1972, Chairman Preston Martin of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Monday.

He and other officials told a news conference they expect conventional mortgage interest rates to stabilize at present levels, or even decline a bit.

Commitments now are being made at a national average of about 7 1/2%, William J. Popejoy of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said. Loans closed during November at an average of 7.75%, he said, compared with the high of 8.52% in August 1970.

To back up his forecast that "1972 ought to be a nifty year for the home buyer," Martin cited what he called the first elements of success in containing inflation, a continued high flow of savings into thrift institutions and "not quite such a scramble for new housing, not so much competition for rental housing."

Moreover, he said, the new mortgage corporation set up to support the conventional loan market expects to add a net of more than $1 billion to lendable funds in 1972, and the effects of eased regulations and new programs by the Home Loan Bank Board will be felt.

Martin said his agency expects a flow of funds into savings and loan associations of about $16 billion in 1972.

While this amount would be down from the $27.7 billion in 1971 — in line with administration predictions that consumers will be spending more and saving less — it would still make 1972 the second best saving year for the industry, Martin said.

His own agency, he said, is prepared to supply $800 million to $1 billion in credit and, if the savings rate falls more than expected during the year, to make more available.

Martin said his agency reduced its own borrowings by almost $3 billion in 1971, taking pressure off the money markets, but "we are willing and ready to turn around in 1972 if we have to."

Asked whether overbuilding might become a problem, Martin said the board has some concern about certain kinds of buildings, especially expensive luxury apartments still going up in quantity in urban areas, but "for the modest house there are very few signs of are rebuilding."

Farm, Business Equipment Included In Proposed Exemptions

any exemption plan thus far proposed.
"I do not think the people realized what they were voting for," Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln said. He cannot support any exemption program "at this time."
1970 Vote
Nebraska voters in 1970 authorized the Legislature to reclassify and exempt any or all forms of personal property from taxation.
The 1971 legislative proposals centered on exemptions for farm and business equipment and inventories, including machinery, livestock, poultry, grain, feed, seed and fertilizer. Next year's bills will cover the same classes of property.

The first measure approved by the Unicameral called for a first-year exemption of 35%, rising to 90% in seven years. The second plan opened with a 20% exemption, increasing to 50% in the third year.
Sens. Gerald Stromer of Kearney, Ramey Whitney of Chappell, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, Walter Epke of York, E. Thome Johnson of Fremont and Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox all indicated support for the general features of the new Burbach committee plan.
"It is imperative that some action be taken to provide relief for farm and business inventories," Ziebarth said.

Both Plans
Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord, chairman of the Revenue Committee, said he will study both the Exon and Burbach plans "before I make my decisions as to which I feel will be most beneficial to the people of the state."
Luedtke proposed a gradual exemption plan, starting at 20% and rising to about an 80% maximum in five years.
But, he said, "this plan would pretty much depend on the acceptance of a plan for ultimately obtaining full funding of state aid to education in a similar period of time, or less."

Goodrich said he can support a 10% per year exemption, but only "if it will fit within the 2 1/2% sales and 13% income tax rates." And replacement funds should be provided to local government only if they do not increase general state tax rates, he said.
"All They Can Expect"
"I think 10% is all they can expect when they're not willing to take the (sales) tax off food," Mahoney said.
"I prefer 15% a year over six years," Snyder said. "I consider it an unfair tax, but I consider it just as unfair to throw a $50 million tax load onto the shoulders of the average working man and homeowner in one swift motion."

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland suggested a beginning exemption of about 25% increased over an ensuing four-year period to a maximum of 85%.
Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice proposed a six-year phased plan leading to a maximum of 75%, and Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook suggested a 90% maximum reached over a four-year period.

Still another plan came from Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney who proposed a 50% beginning, increased by 10% a year thereafter.
Another Omahan, Sen. Harold Moylan, indicated that he might be able to support an exemption plan "if there is a mild one introduced."
Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln said she will "probably not" vote for exemptions. Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln said he is "undecided on this issue at this time."
With the possible exception of Goodrich, senators responding to the survey said local government should be supplied with replacement money from the state's general fund to offset the resulting loss of property tax revenue.

(Next: State aid to schools.)

Foggy weather around here. (Biggest State in the World.) We hang our hats in Sausalito, California. The navel of the universe. Home of the hip and the hi-fi and the rock groups.
So last night down to Seoma's, the waterfront fish restaurant, to audition the crab legs bordelaise. (Approved. We signed them to a year's contract with options.)
All over town the restaurant men moan: "Business is terrible."
With restaurant owners, business is always bad. But they've always got a reason.
"It's always like this over the holidays."
"Business is slow before Lent."
"Business is always bad during Lent."
After Lent they say: "Business is off. Spring vacation is what does it."
Business for me is good if I can pay the bills. If I can make the first of the month with walk around money in my pocket, I am winners.
We are writing checks today.

Things look bright. Not ahead. But not behind either. The sun shines on a solvent man. (This man is twice as solvent as ordinary aspirin. Make this simple test yourself. Drop him in a glass of water and watch him fizzzzzz.)
My banker was a big help in this matter. "We haven't had a disclosure statement on you for some time," he said. "I'll send one over to you."
A disclosure form is a kind of rap sheet. You want the money, you fill it out.
"Assets." Well, if I had any assets, I wouldn't be borrowing money.
Anyway, it shows the banker has confidence in me.
Wasn't always like that. When I was shoveling coal for the dailies, I was always on the short's—newspapers don't believe in spoiling the help.

Thus all of us were often, but in hand, down to the banker.
A loan of $100 was a major victory.
We did not have a disclosure sheet. The banker interviewed us. He had a yellow pencil with a point like a hypodermic needle. He had a long sheet of ruled yellow paper.
He also had a fink sheet in the file.
He said: "A little late on a couple of payments last time, I see."
The gold nuggets on his gold watch chain clinked like ice.
To be sure we paid off, we needed two cosigners. We were all on each others notes. We cosigned for each other. We raided different banks and loan companies.

We were so interlocked financially, it needed a nimble vice president to sort it out. If one of us had gone down, the financial structure of the West would have burst like a bubble.
However, we all paid off. Like gaffed slot machines. That's how the West was won.

State Income Tax Rate Raised To 15% By Equalization Board

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

After a 15 minute discussion, the State Board of Equalization Monday raised the 1972 state individual income tax rate from 13% to 15% and the accompanying corporate tax rate from 2.6% to 3% in order to

Penal Complex Bonds May Find Supporters

By PATRICIA KOZA
United Press International

It appears a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize up to a $20 million bond issue for a new penal complex could find some support when the 1972 Legislature convenes next week.

Growing public sentiment during the past year for penal reform on a national scale has induced the Legislature's Judiciary Committee to look into some plans for improving the state's correctional program and facilities.

The problems were also brought to light through the one-day work strike this fall by inmates at the State Penitentiary, during which a list of demands submitted to prison officials outlined some grievances.

Last week, the Judiciary Committee okayed the bond issue proposal for submission to the upcoming legislature as a backup to several other plans to assure the construction funds will be available.

Comprehensive Plan

The blueprints for the facility would be contained in a proposed comprehensive penal reform plan which, according to a bill to be considered by the upcoming session, would be ready by 1974. Actual construction of a new prison would probably not begin until then.

The committee has been told from $25 to $50 million in federal funds could be made available for the penal reform plan.

The constitutional proposal for the penal complex bond issue would need a four-fifths vote of the lawmakers before it could be sent to the voters in essentially the same although the rate was increased.

This is because Nebraska's income tax rate is a percentage of what citizens pay to the federal government in income taxes. A recently enacted federal measure raised the individual income tax exemption level from $650 to $675 for 1971 and from $675 to $750 for 1972.

To Offset Shrinkage

Thus, for the state to meet expenditures authorized by the Unicameral, the state's rate must be raised to offset the expected shrinkage in federal collections.

State Tax Commissioner Bill Peters told the five board members:

"This is the lowest rate we could project and still stay within the formula designated by the Legislature."

The Legislature's formula stipulates that there be a 5% overlevy or "cushion" and that the rates have equal impact on the state's citizenry.

The 5% cushion could prove valuable, Peters said, due to the faculty in determining the effects of certain federal measures.

New Measures

Among the new measures which Peters is uncertain how to gauge is a political contribution credit which will allow taxpayers to earmark $1 on their income tax to political parties.

Another is the childcare allowance of $400 on up to $18,000 in income. Peters also said he is unsure of how to estimate the effect of a low income exemption bill.

The tax commissioner indicated the new withholding rates will go into effect Jan. 15, the same effective date of the federal income tax cut.

The federal reduction came early in December after Nov. 15 when the board was required by law to set the tax rate. The law provides that after any change in the federal situation the state has 30 days to adjust its rates.

Price Lists Must Be Posted 'Prominently' By Retailers

By The New York Times

Washington — The Internal Revenue Service warned all retailers Monday that they must post lists of base prices "prominently" for the convenience of customers before next Sunday, Jan. 2.

The IRS issued the warning in discharging its duty of implementing the decisions of the Price Commission, which previously had ruled that retailers must provide lists of base prices starting at the beginning of 1972 and for the duration of Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic stabilization program.

Base prices refer to those retail prices in effect when the 90-day wage and price freeze began last Aug. 15.

Up to the present, many retailers simply had been compiling lists of base prices in book form and keeping the books tucked away in the store manager's office.

Monday, however, the Internal Revenue Service served notice that price lists must be readily accessible to consumers without their having to ask for them.

Teacher Salary Offer Unchanged By Fact Finders

Beatrice — A report released Monday by a fact-finding committee regarding teacher salary negotiations at Beatrice was essentially that offered last April by the Beatrice School Board.

The Committee was comprised of three members, one appointed by the school board, one appointed by the Beatrice Education Association and a third appointed by the first two committee members.

The majority report called for a base salary of $6,550 and an increase of 5% for experience and 4% for educational advancement.

The board had made the same offer last April which was rejected by the teachers.

The current base level is $6,400 and the minority report called for a base level of $6,650.

retailers to remember," the IRS statement declared, "is that base prices must be posted prominently in each department where the items for sale are displayed. Prices are not considered to be displayed 'prominently' if a shopper can obtain access only through requesting base price information from the retailer or one of his employees."

Specific Rules Issued

The Pay Board, meanwhile, issued a set of specific rules on salary increases to executives and on other forms of executive compensation.

The rules, which were announced earlier in a general form, hold annual increases in executive salaries to the same 5.5% guideline applied to other wages.

No additional guidance was offered by the IRS Monday to help customers determine whether prices have been legally or illegally raised under the complicated rules devised by the Price Commission. A spokesman for the commission said that "something" was being worked on to help customers but that it was not yet ready.

C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the commission, has conceded that it would be extremely difficult for customers to know if prices had been raised illegally even if they are provided with price lists.

Under the rules already published by the commission, retailers with sales of under $100,000 a year must post the base price of the 40 items that had the largest dollar sales volume during the previous fiscal year or the prices of items that accounted for at least 50% of total sales that year, whichever is less.

Retailers with sales of more than $100,000 must post prices of the 40 items in each department with the highest sales volume or that accounted for at least 50% of last year's sales.

These retailers must post the base prices of all food products not specifically exempted from Phase 2 controls. Raw agricultural products are generally exempt.

Markup Hike Banned

Retailers are permitted to increase prices in order to reflect increased costs. However, they may not increase their "markup" — the percentage by which they raise prices on an item above what they paid for an item.

No retailers have been exempted from the posting requirement, a commission spokesman noted. The spokesman pointed out, for example, that pharmacists must post the price of prescription drugs if those drugs are among the largest selling items.

An IRS spokesman said retailers could post their prices in a book form as long as the book is prominently displayed for the convenience of their customers. Of course, retailers may also display price lists, the spokesman added.

If a customer suspects that a price has been raised in violation of Price Commission regulations, he should first ask the retailer for an explanation, the spokesman said. If not satisfied by the explanation, the customer should then file a complaint with his local IRS office.

The IRS will also spot-check retailers to see if they are complying with the price list regulation and to determine whether they are holding price increases within the commission's guidelines.

Simpson To Seek Change In Committee Membership

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln said Monday he will propose that the Legislature's standing committee members also make up the membership of their counterpart interim study committees.

Simpson said that although the committees often deal with the same issues, the expertise and enthusiasm of the interim committee members is often not available to the standing committee.

The standing committees operate during the legislative sessions, while the interim committees hold hearings during the months between regular sessions.

Simpson said he has ordered the rules change drafted and that it would be submitted to the Legislature's Rules Committee in January.

Simpson made the comment in the wake of an interim study committee hearing on welfare. He is a member of that committee.

The committee members agreed without dissent to a motion indicating committee interest in "continuing to serve until disbanded by the Legislature as a whole."

The study committee is due to submit a report on its hearings over the past six months to the Legislature on Jan. 6. Discussion Monday indicated a committee preference for labeling the report as "preliminary."

Conference On Jesus Movement Is Begun Here

Some 290 high school youths were registered Monday for the United Methodist Church's annual Christmas vacation conference for youth being held at the Nebraska Center.

This year's conference is devoted to an examination of the so-called "Jesus Movement," its background, growth and meaning on the national scene.

Dr. Tex Sample of Kansas City, assistant professor of church and laity at St. Paul School of Theology, is the conference's featured speaker and discussion leader.

The conference ends Wednesday noon.

Window Broken To Get At Liquor

A plate glass window of Go Go Liquor at 841 No. 27th was broken and an undetermined quantity of liquor taken, according to a police report Monday.

Police said the plate window, valued at $85, and four half-pints of liquor were broken by a large rock. Liquor was taken from the display window but building itself was apparently not entered.

Soviet Intelligence Officer Who Defected To U.S. Goes Back Home

Washington (AP) — A Soviet intelligence officer who defected early in October and cooperated with U.S. intelligence agencies has changed his mind and returned to his country, the State Department disclosed Monday.

Anatoliy K. Chebotaryev, described as an intelligence officer with the rank of major, walked into the U.S. embassy in Brussels Oct. 3 and asked to be taken to the United States where he arrived Oct. 7. Chebotaryev's cover was a job as an engineer with the Soviet trade mission in Brussels.

The Russian defector, State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said, had been living in the Washington area since his arrival "under no restraint of any kind."

On Dec. 21 he agreed to meet with Yuly M. Vorontsov, minister-counselor of the Soviet embassy here, and he informed the Soviet diplomat at this meeting at the State Department in the presence of American officials that he came to the United States of his own free will.

Two days later the defector redefected: on Dec. 23 at 7:30 p.m., Bray said, Chebotaryev left his apartment which he shared, on his own request, with an escort provided to him by the administration saying that he was going for a stroll. This had happened before, Bray said, as the Russian was free to move around and the escort was provided to him only when he complained that he felt lonely in the apartment.

On that day, however, Chebotaryev did not return and on Dec. 24 Vorontsov informed Deputy Asst. Secretary of State Richard T. Davies that Chebotaryev was at the embassy and wanted to return to his family in the Soviet Union.

"Vorontsov sought our cooperation," Bray said.

He said that Davies told Vorontsov that the Russian defector had parolee status and therefore the decision on his departure rested with the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

On the evening of Dec. 26 an INS inspector held a 45-minute hearing at the John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York in the presence of five American officials, including one representing the State Department, a Russian-speaking physician, and three security men.

The INS inspector, "having questioned Chebotaryev closely, reached the conclusion that he was acting on his own free will," Bray said, and added that the Russian departed for Moscow at 11:20 p.m. Sunday night aboard an Aeroflot plane.

Bray added, under questioning, that the 45-minute hearing Sunday night left no doubt that Chebotaryev was under no duress. He was jovial, laughing and joking with Soviet officials who were present, Bray said.

Bray declined to speculate on the motives of the defection in October or the redefection now. Nor would he discuss what information the Russian may have supplied to U.S. officials.

Ag Council Members Rap Butz For Grain Bill Stand

Several members of the Nebraska Agriculture Council expressed their displeasure with Secretary of Agriculture Butz for his opposition to the Melcher amendment to HR 1163, the strategic grain reserve bill just passed by the House of Representatives.

The amendment, which is included in the bill as it awaits debate in the senate would increase the loan rate for feed grains by a flat 25%, is opposed by the administration.

"The bill would help every farmer in the feed grain producing areas and help every small town and city in the state. Cheap grain eventually means cheap livestock," said Ray Ratliff, president of the council.

Ratliff added, "The cost of this program would probably be lower than the corn buying program the USDA is operating now. Possible his (Butz) opposition stems from the fact that the loan program would be to the advantage of the farmer rather than to the people in the grain trade."

Ratliff indicated that he planned to contact the state's congressional delegation and expressed the hope that farmers would write to support the bill.

Ratliff said his position had the support of the Nebraska Wheat Growers, the Nebraska Farmers Union, The Nebraska Grange, The National Association of Farmer Elected Committeemen, and the National Farmers Organization.

Mother, Son Die Of Burns, Father Of Heart Failure

Argenteuil, France (AP) — A 24-year-old man died of what doctors called a blood clot in the heart Monday, six days after his wife and baby were burned to death in an apartment explosion.

Rene Blanc, who was at work when an explosion rocked the 12-story apartment tower where he lived in this Paris suburb, was the 15th person to die in connection with the tragedy.

Blanc learned almost immediately that his 20-year-old wife had been killed. He then searched the hospital for days trying to find their 2-year-old son. It was only through a comparison of blood types that they identified a burned body as that of his son.

Blanc died only hours before a mass funeral for 13 of the victims.

Medical Facilities Price Guidelines Unit Designated

Gov. J. J. Exon Monday named the Advisory Council on Hospital and Medical Facilities as the agency to evaluate applications for exceptions to guidelines set by the price commission.

Exon said the council will evaluate applications made by institutional providers of health care for exceptions to the price commission guidelines.

The governor said the council was chosen because C. Jackson Grayson Jr., price commission chairman, asked that an existing group knowledgeable in the field of health care be chosen, instead of having a new statewide body created.

The News In Suburbia

As could be expected, we have quite a bit of catching up to do this morning—and our subject is, of course, holiday happenings in Lincoln's suburban neighborhoods.

Included among the many Lincoln residents who enjoyed Christmas away from home were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bott and daughter, Lisa, of Kimballcrest. The Bott family departed from Lincoln on Monday, Dec. 20, and their destination was Oklahoma City, Okla.

During their stay in Oklahoma, they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bott's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Brenlee and children, Debra, Randy and Steven.

On Christmas Day, a family reunion took place at the Brenlee home, and attending the festive event, in addition to the Bott family, were Mrs. Bott's mother, Mrs. Nettie Wallace, who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Bott to Oklahoma; and the Botts' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Story and children, Jake, Dennis and April, who motored from Lincoln to Oklahoma City on Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Not all of the news from the Bott household concerns Christmas, however. We understand that congratulations are in order for Mrs. Bott's mother, Mrs. Wallace, who observed her 88th birthday on Wednesday, Dec. 15. Since such a special occasion could not pass by unheralded, Mrs. Wallace was the guest of honor at a birthday party which took place Wednesday evening at the Bott home.

Four generations were represented at the get-together; and the guests included Mr. Mrs. Bott's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Plummer and family.

A family gathering in Litchfield was on the weekend agenda for Bethany Park Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Roelle and children, Cynthia and Curtis. Also accompanying the Roelle family on their holiday vacation was Gilbert Kung-Lup Leung of Hong Kong who is a student at the University of Nebraska.

On Christmas Eve, Mrs. Roelle's parents, Mr. and Leon Rainforth were host and hostess at a traditional soup supper held at their home. Also in attendance at the event were Mr. Roelle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Roelle took up host and hostess duties on Christmas Day, when they entertained the Lincoln Roelles, Mr. Leung, Mr. and Mrs. Rainforth, and Mr. and Mrs. Rainforth's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kwiatkowski, John and Matthew of Omaha.

The Roelles returned to Lincoln on Sunday.

Welcoming out-of-town visitors to Lincoln for the special weekend-just-past were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Saunders and sons, Larry and Michael, of Park Manor. Arriving in time to spend the holidays at the Saunders' home were Mr. Saunders' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Saunders, who make their home in Omaha.

Christmas, 1971 will undoubtedly be remembered as a very special time by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gerard due to the arrival on Monday, Dec. 20, of a brand new daughter, Miss Jennifer Jean Gerard. Jennifer, who is the Gerards' first child, weighed in at eight pounds, one and one-half ounces.

The young lady's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Swartz, Jr.

Wedding Of Interest

There will be special interest in the news of a wedding which took place on Sunday evening, Dec. 26, since the bride, Mrs. Virginia Duxbury, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Ralles, is one of Lincoln's talented and well known vocalists, and since the bridegroom, Virgil Parker, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil A. Parker, Jr., of Tucson, Ariz., is an equally well known sports writer.

The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Andros, and the lines of the service were read by Dr. Robert Palmer of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. John Zei who accompanied the Misses Penny and Dede Andros who sang "All the Things You Are," by Jerome Kern. As a processional for the bride Mrs. Zei played the Rose aria from "The Marriage of Figaro."

The bride appeared in a gown of cotton lace in lavender shade. The bodice, under a shoulder shawl of matching lace, was sleeveless and narrowed to a slender, natural waistline above the softly gathered skirt, of daytime length which was accented with fringe at the hem.

Mrs. Louis Douglas was the matron of honor, and Paul Douglas served Mr. Parker as best man. Also serving as attendants were the bride's two children, John and Amy Duxbury.

It won't come as a surprise that Mr. Parker and his bride will be spending their honeymoon in Miami, Fla., where Mr. Parker will be hard at work on stories for the Sunday Journal-Star.

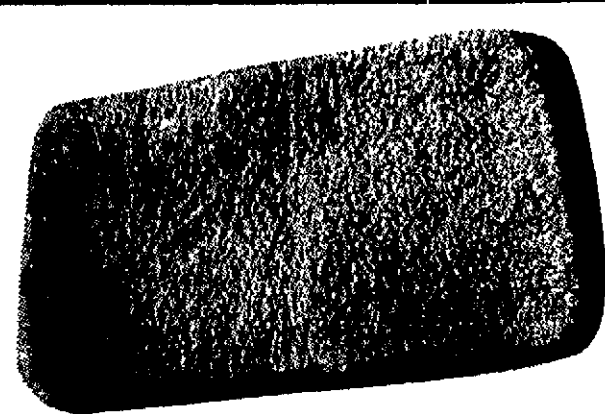

Upon their return to Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside at 5841 Margo Dr.

We Hear That

Arriving in Lincoln on Saturday, Dec. 18, for a week-long pre-holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Larabee were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jared H. Larabee and children, Annette Lynne, Kevin Jay, Lisa Rane and Cynthia Gay.

The Larabees, who make their home in Hopewell, Va., left Lincoln on Friday, Dec. 24, for Beaver City where they are visiting with Mrs. Larabee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johnson; her brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Milan Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson; and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Fisher.

They will return home tomorrow.

Evening Ceremony

The wedding of Miss LynnaGene Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Hill, and George H. Cook, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cook of Omaha, took place on Monday evening, Dec. 27, at the First Church of God. The 7:30 o'clock double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Hill, father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Hugh Bishop.

Mrs. Fred Underhill was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Randy Scott and Mrs. Darrell Petsker, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Marilyn Morey was the bridesmaid.

Vance Wolverton of Underwood, Iowa, served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included John Leonard of Woodbine, Iowa; Rollie Hill, Archie Hill, George Weblemo, Fred Underhill and Darrell Petske.

The bride chose to wear her mother's wedding gown of ivory-toned satin. The long-sleeved, smoothly sculptured bodice was fashioned with a high collar patterned with pearls and seed pearls, and beneath the slender, natural waistline, which was completed with a peplum, the skirt had accented fullness and extended into a cathedral train. A bandeau of lace and pearls held in place her bouffant, shoulder-length veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red poinsettias.

The bride, who majored in elementary education at the University of Nebraska, now is a member of the Calvert School faculty. Mr. Cook is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

SDE Holds Convention Town Talk

Dr. Hazel Metz Fox, chairman of the Department of Nutrition of the University of Nebraska College of Home Economics, presently is attending the national convention of Sigma Delta Epsilon, scientific fraternity for graduate women, being held in Philadelphia, Pa. in conjunction with the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Fox is president of the national organization which will observe the 50th anniversary of its founding this week.

Coed Is A Bride

At a 7 o'clock ceremony on Monday evening, Dec. 27, the marriage of Miss Janice Lynn Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave C. Williams, Jr., to Arthur Marvin Wagner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Wagner, was solemnized at the First United Methodist Church.

Miss Pamela Koranda was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant.

Steven Wilson served Mr. Wagner as best man; and the ushers were Steven Williams and Duane Knight.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white peau de soie styled in the Empire mode. A wide panel of chantilly lace accented the bodice and was repeated on the wedding band collar; and the sheer, deeply cuffed Bishop sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a bow trimmed with appliques of the lace dotted with seed pearls; and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

The bride is a sophomore at the University of Nebraska where she majors in law enforcement and corrections. Mr. Wagner is a student at the Nebraska Technical College at Milford.

That place where all Christmases go has just opened its portals to welcome Christmas, 1971, as they have opened for all of those beautiful Christmases in centuries past, and as they will continue to do for centuries to come. Next Saturday is an extra-special day for two reasons — First, it ushers in brand new days — 365 of them, and it also is the signal for the open season on BEARS — the Alabama variety.

Before the holiday seasons says its farewells and life takes on its usual pattern of normalcy, we have news that revolves around Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Wright of Amherst, Mass., arrived last week to spend Christmas week with Mrs. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

Complimenting her daughter-in-law who, by the way, still is a bride, Mrs. Wright was a coffee hostess at her home last Thursday morning.

The holidays are not quite as usual this year for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lawrie and their family, and Mr. and Mrs. Own Beach and their family. It seems that ever since Mr. and Mrs. Glen Baldwin decided to spend their winters in Scottsdale, Ariz., they made it a rule to join their sons-in-law and daughters and their families for Christmas and holiday week. This year Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin decided to spend Christmas at their Scottsdale home and return to Lincoln in the spring, as always, and remain for the summer months.

We did learn, however, that among the many guests who were in town for Christmas, was Ens. Donald Shurtleff, USN, who returned to his base at San Diego, Calif., on Monday after a very brief Christmas visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Shurtleff.

And also among the holiday guests was Capt. Robert Hillyer who also left on Monday to return to Camp Carson, Colo., after spending a week as the guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who was annoyed with her gentleman friend because he always salted his food before even tasting it, reminded me of something I once read about Thomas Edison.

Edison would always invite a prospective employee over for dinner. The first course would be soup, and if the fellow salted his soup without tasting it first, Edison wouldn't hire him.

JOE GOLDSTEIN, SIOUX CITY, IA.

DEAR JOE: Heaven only knows how many good men Edison passed up by prejudging a man because he prejudged the soup.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to read about George who always seasons his food with plenty of salt and pepper before even tasting it, because I do the same thing.

I have been criticized often for this, but, Abby, I don't just "guess" that the food will need more salt. I KNOW it will.

You see, I am one of those people who can't taste any seasoning unless there is a whole lot of it. And if the food had as much salt in it as I liked, nobody else would be able to eat it.

I just happen to like a lot of salt. Now, I take a taste first, and then pour on the salt to suit myself. That way I keep everybody happy.

PASS THE SALT

DEAR PASS: I don't want to alarm you, but I am told that a craving for salt is nature's way of telling you that you need to have a thorough physical checkup.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Council Drops Sidewalk Requirement

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday approved the plat of Chez Ami Knolls 2nd Addition while waiving the sidewalk requirements in the division.

The council agreed, at the request of the developer, to remove the provision which requires that sidewalks be built by the developers. Instead, the city may construct the sidewalks in the addition and assess the cost against the properties located in the area.

At last week's council session attorney Norman Krivosha, who represents the developers, said that sidewalks in the area are not needed at this time.

In other action the council approved the plat of Debbie's Subdivision, located at 63rd St. and Colby, the three lots in the area to be used in the low rent scattered Turnkey sites program.

In further action the council added a new section to the zoning ordinance which will permit the modification of side and rear yard requirements in the F Restricted Commercial and J Business districts when dwelling units are located above a nonresidential building.

Thus, when a dwelling unit is located on top of a nonresidential building the required side and rear yard area for dwellings may be met by use of the roof surface if certain conditions are met. The roof can then be used for recreational purposes, plantings and open space. In addition, rooftop structures — such as vents and exhausts — can not occupy more than 15% of the remaining roof surface.

City Atty. Dick Wood indicated that in several months the Council will be asked to approve such requirements on a special use permit basis instead of through a zoning change for easier handling of the matter.

Wood also reported on the status of several court cases which may affect proposed state legislation which would restrict the serving of alcoholic beverages to "members only" in private clubs which discriminate in membership. The council is considering supporting such a measure in the 1972 legislative session.

Wood said that a Pennsylvania court has held that it is illegal for fraternal organizations which discriminate in membership to hold a liquor license. The case has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court with a possible decision to be handed down during the court's spring term.

Wood said that under these circumstances he advised that the council "do nothing" until a decision is reached.

In other action Councilman Merle Hale was appointed as a nonvoting member to the Auditorium Advisory Board. Hale will act as a liaison officer between the two groups.

In other action:

Ancient City Veritable Art Gallery

by The New York Times

Athens — A rich 3,500-year-old city, discovered by Greek archeologists under a thick layer of volcanic fallout on the Aegean island of Thera, has turned out to be a veritable art gallery.

The latest finds include two striking frescoes painted before the volcanic eruption in 1500 B.C. that destroyed most of the island. One painting showed a bare-breasted woman picking flowers; the other a teen-aged priestess in profile, her ear — like her lips — painted bright red.

Prof. Spyridon Marinatos, who announced the discoveries, said the Thera wall paintings had been moved to Athens for cleaning, assembly and conservation. "I expect they will be ready to be displayed within the next three or four months," he said.

In a special hall of the Athens National Archeological Museum, four restored wall paintings from Thera are already on view. They include a so-called "spring fresco," preserved complete over three walls and showing a field of red madonna lilies growing out of volcanic rock, with swallows hovering above; a fresco of blue monkeys frolicking in a volcanic landscape; two boxing boys, and a drawing of graceful wild goats.

Marinatos said: "We had not intended to excavate in Thera this season. I simply decided to build an extensive shed over the whole excavation area to protect it, seeing it will take us years to explore the buried city. But even while digging to put up the metal pylons, we stumbled on treasures."

The prehistoric city Marinatos discovered in 1967 Akrotiri, in the south of Thera Island, better known today as Santorini, was the home of 20,000 to 30,000 people around 1500 B.C., "until disaster struck," said Marinatos. "The volcano erupted, causing all but the surviving crescent of the island to sink, destroying the city and shrouding the ruins under a mantle of volcanic ash."

Zoo Officials Are Puzzled By Death Of Female Gorilla

Omaha (AP) — A 3-month-old female gorilla died in Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo Sunday night of acute gastric dilation, according to zoo director Dr. Lee Simmons.

Dr. Simmons said officials are puzzled by the death of the animal.

He said another young gorilla born in captivity died of a gastro-intestinal infection two years ago and a third surviving gorilla, an 18-month-old female, has come close to death on six occasions from the same symptoms, the first time when it was three months old.

The gorilla that died Sunday night, one of three fathered by Casey, a gorilla on loan from the Como Park Zoo at St. Paul, Minn., was to have gone to St. Paul.

Dr. Simmons said the gorilla was the offspring of Benoit, a female gorilla at the Doorly Zoo. Birth of another gorilla is expected shortly of Bridget, a mature female gorilla at the

Brides At Monday Weddings

On Monday evening, Dec. 27, the wedding of Miss Laurie Elaine Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hansen, and Danny Fazel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fazel, took place at St. Luke's United Methodist Church. Dr. James Hansen solemnized the ceremony, and he was assisted by Dr. Richard Carolyn of Trinity United Methodist Church.

Miss Cynthia Hansen attended her sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids included Miss Marsha Anderson and Miss JoAnn Hale. Miss Sandy Fazel, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid.

Tom Baite of Omaha served as best man; and the groomsmen included Richard Lear, Frank Bartzatt and Jerry Fazel, who was the junior groomsmen. Michael Hansen, Edward Voss, Earl Fazel and Lyndon Hansen seated the guests.

The bride appeared in a gown of satin peau accented with chantilly lace. The Empire bodice, fashioned of the lace, featured a jewel neckline and Bishop sleeves; and a cathedral-length train of the lace added back interest to the softly gathered skirt. Her tiered veil of silk illusion was held in place by a bandeau of lace flowers and seed pearls; and she carried an arrangement of pink carnations, and pink and burgundy roses.

The bride is a freshman at Nebraska Wesleyan University;

The marriage of Miss Marija Armanovs, daughter of Mrs. Mezals Armanovs and Peteris Armanovs, and Michael V. Scholz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Scholz of Milan, Mich., was solemnized at a ceremony which took place on Monday evening, Dec. 27, at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Msgr. John J. Flynn officiated at the 7:30 o'clock service.

Mrs. Wayne LaLone attended the bride as the matron of honor; and Mrs. Robert Schmiersal of Malcolm was bridesmatron.

Dennis Kruger served Mr. Scholz as best man, and George Armanovs, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. Wayne LaLone seated the guests.

White chiffon accented with re-em-broidered lace fashioned the gown chosen by the bride for her wedding. The Empire bodice was completed with a wedding band collar and long, fitted sleeves, and appliques of the lace were repeated to accept the A-line skirt the hem of which was bordered with a band of the lace. Her veil of white tulle was train-length; and she carried a basket of red roses, pink carnations and holly.

Mr. Scholz and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

Opening lead — six of clubs.
Bridge is not as difficult as it is sometimes made out to be. Bids or plays requiring exceptional skill are few and far between, and the chief challenge of the game consists of avoiding the everyday errors that occur.

Thus, it would be easy for the defense to go wrong in this deal where South arrives at two notrump and West leads a club. If the defense functions correctly, South must go down, but let either defender slip ever so slightly and declarer comes home with eight tricks.

Declarer wins the opening club lead in dummy with the ten and naturally attacks spades, for that is his most promising source for tricks.

But when he leads a low spade from dummy at trick two, East and West must both play carefully or declarer will make the contract.

Thus, if East plays low on dummy's five of spades, South likewise plays low and cannot be stopped from making four spade tricks and the contract.

But if East puts up the ten of spades at trick two, South cannot afford to duck — he would go down at once with a club return — and he is forced to win the spade with the ace.

Again the defense must be letter-perfect, for West must play his queen of spades on the ace. If he doesn't, South makes the contract by forcing West to win the very next spade lead with the queen, thus assuring eight tricks.

If West is alert to the situation and does play his queen on the ace, South must eventually go down one. Plainly, trick two is the critical point on the hand. If East-West do not falter, South is doomed.

From The Miami Notebook

Miami, Fla. — Notes from the place where President Nixon ought to launch his next anti-inflation program, where you get only 18 cents worth of stamps for a quarter and only a dime's worth of newspaper for 15 cents:

Cyril Baptiste, the Miami high school basketball star who starred during a college career for Creighton, but who walked out of the Golden State Warriors NBA camp last summer and has been living as a hermit in Washington, and hopes to be welcomed back by the Warriors on Jan. 15.

The Miami Dolphins are so big in south Florida that their playoff game on Christmas Day in Kansas City was shown on television sets stationed throughout Tropical Park so bettors could catch the action between wagers.

It seems that anywhere you go anymore you run into ex-Husker athletes who have a strong interest in the current football team.

Attending the Huskers' opening workout here last Friday were former NU cager Al Buuck and former Husker footballer-swimmer Joe Gacusana.

Gacusana is now coaching high school football in Miami while Buuck is a distributor of anti-crime devices such as check-cashing cameras and holdup cameras in the Miami area, the No. 1 crime area in the United States.

Buuck was constantly plagued by back problems while playing for former Husker coach Jerry Bush and seeing him here reminded NU physical therapist George Sullivan of the time he had a back seizure while in his dormitory room.

"Someone called us and said Al was in his room and couldn't move," Sullivan recalled. "Paul (trainer Schneider) and I went over to see what was the problem."

"But he couldn't get to the door to open it, so he threw his room key toward the small opening under the door and it slid under so that we could get in and help him."

Huskers Ignore Airport Hecklers

When the Nebraska team arrived here from Lincoln, they were greeted, as is normal procedure, by Orange Bowl officials and by the Orange Bowl Queen and her court.

But they also were greeted by heckling from a group of Eastern Airlines mechanics shouting, "Alabama's No. 1" and "The Italian Stallion (Alabama running back Johnny Musso) will ride again."

The Husker gridders, showing the same poise that has carried them through 51 straight unbeaten games, simply smiled at the hecklers, who were safely in their pens behind a fence, and went calmly to the buses without answering.

A number of University of Nebraska administrators, spending the first few days of their stay in Miami Beach at the Beau Rivage Hotel only three hotels away from the team headquarters will be forced to move thirty miles north to Fort Lauderdale to make room for Nebraska Gov. J. J. Exon's party when it arrives here.

Another former Nebraskan now in Miami is Rick Weaver, former sports director of Lincoln's KOLN-TV who does the play-by-play of the Miami Dolphins games. Part of his broadcast crew on home games is the above-mentioned Buuck.

Weaver's color man all season was not with him for the Miami-Kansas City playoff game, having been arrested earlier in the week on a grand larceny charge.

Two Teams At Ivanhoe

On two previous trips to Miami's Orange Bowl, Nebraska shared its quarters at the Ivanhoe Hotel with the Green Bay Packers, who were here for the now-defunct National Football League Playoff Bowl.

This time the Huskers shared it through Monday night with members of the North team, here for the annual North-South Shrine All-Star Game that also included Iowa State's Johnny Majors as one of its coaches.

The results of the National Football League playoff games the past weekend mean the same cities that will play host to three major bowl games on New Year's Day also will be the sites of the final three NFL championship games.

The same 200 sports writers covering collegiate football's version of the Super Bowl between Nebraska and Alabama may meet as they leave the Orange Bowl Stadium here some of the pro football writers coming in to cover the Miami-Baltimore American Football Conference championship game in Dallas where the Cotton Bowl will be played Saturday afternoon the National Football Conference championship game will be played Sunday afternoon and New Orleans, site of the Sugar Bowl Saturday, will play host to the NFL Super Bowl on Jan. 16.

French Corners, a 63-1 shot who paid $128 in winning the $25,000-added Christmas Handicap at Tropical Park here on Christmas Day, ran at Ak-Sar-Ben last summer and was ridden to the win here Saturday by a former Ak-Sar-Ben jockey, Don MacBeth.

Mark Gordon, our turf expert, says he remembers the horse well at Ak-Sar-Ben. He lost money on it. Seems away, a thoroughbred who ran at both Ak-Sar-Ben and Lincoln in 1970, paid $5.20 in winning the first race at Tropical Park on Christmas Day.

Unbeaten Marymount Tops Nebraska Wesleyan Invite

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Star Sports Writer

Unbeaten Marymount tops the collegiate field in the first annual Nebraska Wesleyan University invitational basketball tournament.

The meet begins Tuesday with the 11-0 Salina, Kan. club meeting 2-1 Cornell, Iowa, College at 4:15 p.m. at the Ira J. Taylor Gym. The host 2-5 Plainsmen play the 5-2 University of Wisconsin at Platteville at 7:45.

Two of the state's Class D powers — Mead and Yutan — are joined by Sterling and Adams in the high school division.

Sterling and Mead tangle at 6:00 between the two college games and Adams clashes with Yutan at 9:15 in the last contest of the day.

The first-day collegiate winners will square off at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday for the tourney's title with the consolation game at 4:15. The prep championship will be at 9:15 Wednesday with the consolation game at 6:00.

Coach Irv Peterson is hoping the meet will help his Plainsmen.

Last year NWU was idle over the long holiday period and Peterson indicated he felt this hunt the ball team. So this season Wesleyan hosts two tournaments — the NWU meet Tuesday and Wednesday and

Miami, Dallas Picked To Win

Reno, Nev. (UPI) — Dallas and Miami were listed as favorites Monday to win their conference championships Sunday and go on to clash in the Super Bowl.

Harrah's Tahoe Race Book put Dallas 5½ points ahead of San Francisco in the National Football Conference title game, and gave Miami 2 over Baltimore in the American Conference championship match.

Arizona State Wins First Fiesta Bowl

... FLORIDA STATE FALLS, 45-38, IN SCORING SPREE

Tempe, Ariz. (UPI) — Halfback Woody Green scored his third touchdown with 34 seconds remaining in the game Monday to give sixth-ranked Arizona State a 45-38 win over a stubborn Florida State in the first annual Fiesta Bowl.

Green plunged over from the two to climax a 58-yard drive after the Sun Devils had taken the kickoff following a 90-second scoring outburst by both teams.

A capacity crowd of 52,089 saw the teams battle to a 31-31 tie until the six minute mark.

Then Steve Holden sprinted 68 yards on a punt return to put the Devils ahead 38-31.

Florida State came right back, scoring on a 24 yard pass play from Gary Huff to Rhett Dawson to tie it up again.

That set the stage for the final ASU scoring drive. Florida State had one more chance but was forced to surrender the ball on downs with three seconds left.

Huff, the nation's total offense leader during the season, connected on 25 of 46 pass attempts for 347 yards and two touchdowns for the 19th ranked Seminoles. ASU's White completed 15 of 30 for 250 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Dawson and Barry Smith each had eight catches for Florida State, three of Dawson's for touchdowns.

Green was the game's leading rusher, picking up 101 yards on 24 carries as well as three TDs.

South Nips North In All-Star Game

Miami, Fla. — Florida's Tommy Durrance slammed for a touchdown and Tennessee's Bobby Majors — finding a new way of being a hero — kicked the extra point Monday night as the South edged the North 7-6 in the Shrine All-Star college football game.

The Rebels halted a five-game North winning streak and took a 12-11-1 lead in the series before a national television audience and a slim Orange Bowl crowd of 18,640.

North quarterback Dean Carlson fumbled at the North 46 to open the way for the South.

Durrance cracked for gains of 12, four and four yards before scoring from the one at 6:59 of the fourth period.

Majors, an All-American safety and standout kick returner, assumed a new role of placekicker and gave the Rebels the point they needed to win for the first time since 1965.

Northwestern's Maurice Daigneau fired a one-yard pass to Iowa State tight end Bob Richardson for the North score in the second period. But the point-after attempt by Stan White of Ohio State was blocked by the South's Ernie Jackson of Duke.

UCLA Still In Front

By Associated Press

UCLA remains atop the major college basketball rankings as usual with very little movement among the Top Ten teams, according to the weekly Associated Press poll announced Monday.

In a week of little action—holiday tournaments in virtually every section of the country this week could shuffle the teams—UCLA again maintained a commanding edge over second-rated Marquette, according to a nationwide panel of 35 sports writers and sportscasters.

The rest of the Top Ten remained intact with some slight changes. South Carolina, North Carolina, Southern California and Ohio State retained the Nos. 3-4-5-6 spots while No. 7 Indiana moved up a notch as did St. John's, N.Y., up one place to ninth.

Royals Waiver Jones

Cincinnati (AP) — Guard Jake Jones, who averaged 5.2 points in 11 games with the Cincinnati Royals, was placed on waivers Monday by the National Basketball Association club.

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer

Kansas City, Mo. — Two Nebraska spurts — one early and another late failed to halt persistent Missouri here Monday night as the Tigers rolled to a 76-64 basketball victory in opening round action of the 26th annual Big Eight pre-season tournament.

The loss at Municipal Auditorium sent the Huskers to a 5-5 record and pushed the Lincolnties into consolation competition. NU meets Oklahoma State, 83-63 losers to Colorado Monday, at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Although coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers never, led, two rallies gave hope that perhaps Mizzou, entering the meet with the best record at 7-1, might falter.

After rocketing to a 14-4 lead with 13:05 before the halftime intermission, NU tied the contest at 18-all on a turnabout shot by center Chuck Jura.

But Missouri, as it was to do later with the fatal rally, quickly roared into a 13-5 scoring advantage during the last five minutes of the half to earn a 31-23 halftime margin.

Although NU crept no closer than five points in the final stanza, the outcome was never settled until the final minutes when Missouri hit five free throws and a shot at the buzzer to pull from a 69-64 lead with 2:04 left to the final margin.

The Tigers were seemingly on the verge of ripping NU when they held a 15-point bulge (55-40 with 9:27 left). But timely Nebraska shooting by senior guard Al Nissen, who paced NU in scoring with 21 points, brought the score to 59-54.

Although the teams were almost even in field goals made (NU actually outscored the Tigers 24-23), free throws spelled the difference. Nebraska hit on just 16 of 24 free attempts while Missouri connected on 30 of 35 shots for a phenomenal 85.7 percent overall.

Both teams were fairly accurate from the field with Missouri scoring on 23 of 51 attempts for a 45.1 mark and the Huskers connecting on 24 of 54 tries for a 44.4 percent average.

"Our free throw shooting didn't help us but I thought we battled them well," said Cipriano. "You have to give Missouri credit. Their defense really bothered us."

Noting that the win was Missouri's first over Nebraska during the Cipriano era, the NU coach added:

"It was Norm's turn this year," Cipriano said. "He said last year it was his turn this year. Now I just hope he remembers if we play again next year that it is our turn."

Stewart, in praising sophomore Al Eberhard, who poured in 17 points, termed the contest a long struggle.

"We were a little bit rusty, and didn't show a lot of poise," Stewart said. "We didn't play

—NEBRASKANS GET 'BEAR' HAT—

Bryant Praises Devaney As Coaches Meet Press

By HAL BROWN

Star Sports Editor

Miami, Fla. — Alabama football coach Bear Bryant, who has become famous for the houndstooth hats he wears on the Alabama sidelines at football games, presented one of those hats to each member of the Nebraska press here Monday evening and promised he had more coming for writers covering the Orange Bowl game between his Crimson Tide and the Huskers Saturday night.

It was in some ways a commercial gesture since Bryant is teaming with Sonny Werblin, former New York Jets owner and owner of thoroughbred champion Silent Screen, in forming the Hat Company of America Corporation to market the fedoras.

Bryant also had some glowing words to say about Husker head coach Bob Devaney as the two coaches, among the most successful in collegiate coaching, met the press together for the first time since their Sugar Bowl confrontation of 1967 which Bryant won, 34-7.

"I'll tell you why I consider Coach Devaney a great coach," Bryant told a press conference of some 35 writers and broadcasters. "And that's that he's won big at all levels of coaching."

"I've never coached anything, but college football, but Coach Devaney has coached at the high school level and he's won big there. He's coached at the college level and he's won big there."

Both coaches claimed they had little interest in becoming pro football coaches.

"I'm not interested in the pros," Bryant said. "But they apparently aren't interested in me, either, because they haven't exactly been knocking down my door."

"They haven't mine, either," Devaney chimed in. "Do you suppose they think we're too old?"

"I don't know whether they think we're too old," Bryant retorted. "But I think I'm too old. There's no way I'm going to go to the pros."

"I'm going to fold my tent up where I am. You ask when will that be. It will be when either the university or I decide that I'm no longer an asset to Alabama and I hope that's not for a long time yet."

Asked when he took another shot at meeting Bryant, who owns a 2-0 edge over him in bowls, Devaney quipped, "We needed the money."

"Alabama has been less than polite to us in the past. I just hope we can play well. After our last game (the 34-7 loss) we went home and hid for a month."

Asked to evaluate what kind of a game fans might expect to see in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Night, Devaney observed, "We've been watching films of Alabama and it might be better if we hadn't."

"Every time we watch the films, we become more conscious of what a fine defense Alabama has. All year, we've gone into games figuring we can score 30 or 35 points."

"We don't feel that way about this game because this is easily the best defense we've faced. We're hopeful we can score 30 or 35 points, but we can't predict that we will."

"Just considering the fine offenses of the two teams, you might think there would be a lot of scoring, but both teams have fine defenses and it's difficult to predict if it will be high scoring."

"Defense is going to enter into this game a great deal."

The pressure of the game already is starting to build with the Huskers ranked No. 1 and Alabama ranked No. 2 and with both unbeaten this season. Devaney doesn't figure the pressure will be a problem for either team.

"I think both teams have handled pressure well," he pointed out. "And I don't expect either team to fold under the pressure."

"I'm not going to say that neither team will make mistakes, but I don't think either team will be bothered by the pressure."

Bryant said he enjoyed the pressure. "The seasons we've had the past couple of years, we haven't been bothered much by the press," Bryant noted. "There haven't been many writers around us."

"We haven't been confronted with much of this (mass press interviews) I kind of like it. I enjoy it." Then he passed out the hats.

very good basketball but a lot of that can be attributed to Nebraska."

Tourney Notes

Former Kansas State basketball coach Tex Winter, now coach of the National Basketball Association Houston Rockets, was an opening-day visitor to the tournament. . . . Iowa State's squad has stayed at three cities in two states during the first three days here. Sunday, the Cyclones were housed at the Kansas City (Kan.) Holiday Towers, Monday found ISU at the Howard Johnson in Independence, Mo. and Tuesday, the Ames crew will stay at the Hotel Muehlebach in Kansas City, Mo. ISU publicist Harry Burrell said coach Maury John's theory is based on leaving the team with as little time as possible to wander around the city where the game is held. "When we travel, we rarely stay in the city where we play," Burrell said. "When we play at Nebraska we'll probably stay at Omaha."

Colorado Clobbers Cowboys

Kansas City (AP) — Colorado scored the game's first nine points and had little trouble going on to an 83-62 victory over Oklahoma State Monday night in the first round of the 26th annual Big Eight Conference preseason basketball tournament.

It took Oklahoma State four minutes, three seconds to score. Kevin Fitzgerald finally found the range.

The Buffs were leading 15-2 with 14 minutes left in the first half when Oklahoma State made eight straight points, including a three-pointer by Fitzgerald, to cut the Buffs' margin to five.

Lee Haven hit two free throws and Jim Creighton one to pad the Colorado advantage to eight points. After that, the Buffs gradually pulled a way and led 41-22 at halftime.

Colorado enjoyed 18 and 20 point leads through most of the second half. The Cowboys were able to make only three field goals in the final seven minutes, 17 seconds.

Haven led Colorado with 18 points but had to yield scoring honors to the Cowboys' Ralph Rasmuson, who had 21. Creighton was the top rebounder with 11.

Colorado is 2-6, Oklahoma State 1-6.

Tide Passing Game May Surprise Huskers

... BAILEY KEY RECEIVER?

By NEIL AMDUR
The New York Times

Miami — David Bailey, who caught more passes for Alabama last year than the Crimson Tide completed this season, may become the key figure in next Saturday night's national collegiate title game with top-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

You will not find Bailey's name among the all-America lists or pass-receiving leaders in college football this year.

But his absence is no reflection on inefficiency; Alabama, enroute to 11 consecutive victories, is not passing with the same passion that characterized less successful teams in the past.

The reason has been the Tide's commitment to the Wishbone offense, a philosophy that dictates ball control over the more exciting pitch-and-catch.

Yet if Alabama is to upset Nebraska and claim another national college crown for coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, the Tide will need an element of surprise to penetrate the Nebraska defense, considered one of the country's finest.

Bama's two previous bowl victories over Nebraska — the 1966 Orange Bowl (39-28) and 1967 Sugar Bowl (34-7) were fashioned with the emphasis on speed and surprise.

In the 1966 Orange Bowl, Bama gained a 24-7 half-time lead and completed 20 of 29 passes for 296 yards. The following year, Ray Perkins, a fleet Tide receiver, caught nine passes for 178 yards as Bama bolted ahead, 24-0, at half time.

Bailey, a 6-2, 200-pounder, has caught only 21 passes for 286 yards and five touchdowns this year — meager statistics beside his school record of 111 receptions for 1,571 yards in two previous seasons.

Bailey is not likely to be taken for granted by Nebraska, nor has he gone unnoticed by the professional scouts.

If Nebraska attempts to defend

Alabama's triple option series with the same approach the Cornhuskers used against the Oklahoma wishbone — contain the outside pitch game to the trailing back, force the quarterback inside and cover the wide receivers one on one — Alabama may be in a perfect position to try Bailey early and often.

The tide can afford to gamble. Bama is No. 2 in the polls, the six-point underdog, has not shown a passing game all season, and can assess quickly what changes, if any, the Nebraska secondary has made since yielding 31 points to Oklahoma in the 35-31 Thanksgiving Day classic.

Nebraska is unbeaten this season, just as it was in 1965.

Consecutive bowl defeats to Bryant induced Bob Devaney, the Husker coach, to stress speed as well as size in future recruiting, and this club has been called "one of the most complete college teams ever" by several rival coaches.

How complete will depend on Nebraska's ability to corral Alabama's "Italian stallion." Johnny Musso, an all-America running back, and control the tempo of the game, as it did against Oklahoma even when the Sooners led twice — the only two times the Huskers have been behind in 12 games.

Alabama lacks Oklahoma's over-all speed and explosiveness on offense, but the Tide is bigger and stronger in the offensive line and unquestionably more mature and balanced on defense, the most complete defensive team Nebraska has faced since last year's 17-12 Orange Bowl triumph over Louisiana State.

Then there is Bailey, a senior who was born and raised in Bailey, Miss., a town founded by his grandfather.

At a school that has produced such great pass catchers as Don Hutson, Perkins and Dennis Homan, Bailey may emerge from this game with the kudos and credit he deserves, not to mention another national championship for Alabama.

—WEATHERMAN HELPING— Blue-Gray Gridders Finish Polishing-Up Drills For Tilt

Montgomery, Ala. — Blue-Gray football players went through polishing-up drills Monday in balmy springlike weather which could become a factor in Tuesday night's all-star game.

The weatherman has forecast partly cloudy skies, mild temperatures — probably in the mid 50s — and virtually no chance of rain for the kickoff at 7 p.m., CST.

Coaching the Southerners for the annual inter-sectional contest is Bill Peterson of Rice, whose contract offer from the Houston Oilers embroiled him in a controversy with his college president after he arrived here for the Blue-Gray. Peterson agreed to take the job if Rice would release him from his present contract. Rice's president, Dr. Norman Hackerman, refused, and threatened to go to court to stop the coach from switching jobs, but Peterson said he thought it could be worked out after he returns home.

The Gray squad is anxious to stretch the south's winning streak to four games in a row and the over-all Blue-Gray margin to 19 victories in 33 games. The North hasn't won since 1967.

Peterson has chosen Steve Judy of Texas Christian to start at quarterback, with Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State as the backup passer. Gilliam accounted for 2,116 yards in passing during the past season and hit his receivers for 25 touchdowns.

Art Cantrelle of Louisiana State, Bobby Davis of Texas Christian and Stable Vincent of Rice will handle the running. The North's head coach, John Jardine of Wisconsin, will start his own quarterback, Neil Graff, and use Gary Fox of Wyoming in relief.

Jardine's running backs include Gary Kosins of Dayton and Alan Thompson of Wisconsin.

MIXED BAGGERS

San Francisco, Dallas Begin Sunday Playoff

New York (AP)—The National Football League announced Monday that the playoff game between San Francisco and Dallas deciding the National Conference champion, will be the first part of Sunday's playoff doubleheader. The American playoff between Miami and Baltimore will follow it.

The NFC game will be telecast by CBS and the AFC game by NBC. Specific times will be announced Tuesday.

Lane To Join Baylor

Waco, Tex. (AP)—Bill Lane, 38, defensive coordinator at Angelo State University the past three seasons, will join the staff of new Baylor head coach Grant Teaff.

Sportsmen Take Holiday

Outdoor sport took a holiday over most of the state, as Game and Parks Commission conservation officers report only very light activity across Nebraska the past few days.

Only the western portion of the state hosted much activity, while the Sand Hills and eastern part provided little hunting and fishing. According to the Game Commission's men in the field, this included:

SOUTHWEST
Stormy weather made for good duck hunting in the North Platte area, and Enders and Swanston Reservoirs hosted good numbers of ducks. Pheasant hunting pressure was light to moderate throughout the area.

PANHANDLE
Pheasant hunting pressure has been light, and success has ranged from fair to good as gunners in some areas averaged a bird apiece. Most of the ducks have left more northern areas. Those remaining in Scotts Bluff County are keeping to the lakes and not providing much shooting. Large rainbow trout have been observed in Tub Springs, Nine Mile Creek, and Winton Creek, all in Scotts Bluff County. Fishing pressure has been almost nonexistent, however.

Luther Hits Concordia

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP)—Shooting at a 50 per cent clip, Luther won its opening game in the Lutheran Brotherhood Invitational basketball tournament here Monday night, beating Concordia College of Nebraska, 93-81.

Luther sank 35 of its 70 shots.

The Norsemen of Decorah, Iowa were paced by Tim O'Neill with 22 points. Three other players achieved double figures.

Concordia's Ron Schroeder garnered 21 points to lead his squad.

Luther established a halftime lead of 52-42, but developed a cold spell in the second half.

Concordia turned on the heat and trailed by one point 68-67 before Luther's offense caught fire and widened the gap to 10 points, 82-72.

Luther had control of the game in the final six minutes and went on to win.

Unitas Credits Defense

Houston (UPI)—Old pro quarterback Johnny Unitas, honored Monday night by the Houston Touchdown Club, credited the Baltimore defense with putting the Colts in the American Football Conference championship game.

'Mr. Victory' Leads Toledo Action

Orlando, Fla. (AP)—Chuck Ealey, the University of Toledo's "Mr. Victory," leads the Rocks in their quest for their 35th straight triumph Tuesday night against Southern Conference king Richmond in the Tangerine Bowl.

Toledo smashed Southern winners Davidson 56-33 and William and Mary 40-12 in the last two Tangerines and is a fat three-touchdown choice to handle the 5-5 Spiders.

A crowd of 17,000 is expected for the 7 p.m. CST kickoff. Ealey faces his final collegiate game with a personal victory streak of 64 that dates back to the ninth grade. The 6-foot quarterback passed and ran for 2,030 yards and 20 touchdowns as a senior.

Quarterback Ken Nichols and wide receivers Jerry Haynes and Joe Sgroi have the aerial potential to give the Spiders a shot at upsetting the Mid-American Conference champs who last lost a game in 1908.

Nichols completed 73 of 131 attempts, 55.7 per cent, for 963 yards and eight touchdowns. Haynes grabbed 23 of those for 262 yards and three scores. Sgroi hauled in 20 for 417 yards — a hefty 20.8 yard average — and four touchdowns.

John Nugent is a 220-pound power at defensive end for Richmond. He made 11 unassisted tackles when Richmond whipped William and Mary for the SC title and bowl bid.

Joe Schwartz, a 205-pound junior, provided balance in super-star Ealey's backfield by running for 1,079 yards and 16 touchdowns. He averaged 5.2.

So our employees may spend the holiday with their families, all First Federal Lincoln offices will close at 1:00 p.m. on Friday, December 31.

Have an enjoyable holiday.

Dolphins, Chiefs Top Picks

... SIX MIAMI PLAYERS NAMED ON FIRST TEAM

New York (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins and the Kansas City Chiefs, who tied for most victories in the American Football Conference this season, dominate the 1971 AFC all-star team as selected by the United Press International.

The Dolphins, who captured the Eastern Division with a 10-3-1 record, named six players to the all-conference first team while the Chiefs, who won the Western Division with an identical record, placed five on the first unit. It marked quite a turnaround for the Dolphins, who did not have a single player named to the 1970 squad.

Miami had four players selected to the offensive unit and two to the defensive squad in a balloting conducted of 33 sports writers who cover the AFC on a regular basis — at least two writers from each AFC city.

Those Dolphins selected to the offensive team were wide receiver Paul Warfield, quarterback Bob Griese, running back Larry Csonka and guard Larry Little. Named to the defensive team were end Bill Stanfill and safety Jake Scott.

The chiefs placed two men on the offensive unit and three on the defensive squad.

Wide receiver Otis Taylor and tackle Jim Tyrer were selected to the offensive team and middle linebacker Willie Lanier, linebacker Bobby Bell and cornerback Jim Marsalis were chosen to the defensive unit.

Tyrer, Lanier, Bell and Marsalis are all repeat selections from a year ago. It marks the seventh straight selection to the all-AFC team for Bell and the fourth year in a row for Tyrer, who has been an all-conference choice on six occasions overall.

The Baltimore Colts, runners-up to Miami in the Eastern Division, had three players named to the first team while Houston, New York, Oakland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Denver, Cleveland and San Diego each had one player selected.

The Colts named center Bill Curry to the offensive team and placed linebacker Ted Hendricks and end Bubba Smith on the defensive unit. Curry's selection at center snaps a 10-year dominance of that position by Oakland's Jim Otto.

Other players named to the offensive team were tight end Milt Morin of Cleveland, tackle Winston Hall of New York, guard Walt Sweeney of San Diego and running back Floyd Little of Denver. It is Little's third consecutive year on the all-AFC first team.

The defensive unit is rounded out by tackles Joe Greene of Pittsburgh and Mike Reid of Cincinnati, cornerback Willie Brown of Oakland and safety Ken Houston of Houston.

Crowder: Buffs Better Now Than During Husker Game

... ASTRO-BLUEBONNET BOWL

Houston (AP) — Head Coach Eddie Crowder said Monday his seventh-ranked Colorado Buffaloes are a better football team now than when they lost a showdown battle with No. 1 Nebraska.

Crowder made the assessment as he watched his team work out in the Astrodome, where the Buffs play 15th ranked Houston New Year's Eve in the 14th annual Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

"This is a young team," Crowder said. "At that time, we hadn't shown the progress we had hoped for. We sort of plateaued there and didn't play very well."

After the loss to Nebraska, Colorado won its last three games for a 9-2 season and accepted the Astro-Bluebonnet berth opposite Houston, also 9-2 with losses only to Arizona State and Alabama.

It is Colorado's third straight bowl appearance and its fourth in five years. The Buffaloes defeated Miami 31-21 here in 1967, the last year the Bluebonnet was played in the 70,000-seat Rice University stadium before moving to the Astrodome.

"It was just an overall improvement from gaining more experience," Crowder said without detailing the Buffs' progress since the Nebraska game.

But split end Cliff Branch, billed by the Buffaloes as America's fastest football player, was more specific.

"Our biggest improvement has been mentally," he said. "We also got some good experience for our quarterback. He was just a young quarterback going into a test game but after the Nebraska game he really came on. It was his ability that brought the rest of us through."

Sophomore quarterback Ken Anderson is only the fourth Buff to complete passes for more than 1,000 yards in a single season. He completed 64 of 163 attempts for 1,126 yards and eight touchdowns.

Crowder said he was not sure about the Buffs' condition after only two workouts in Houston. "Because of our final exams schedule, it was difficult to get in any practice before departing for Houston," he said. "The only work we had until Sunday had been running."

—PLAYERS GIVEN FREE TIME— Sooners Rewarded After Tough Drills

New Orleans (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners cashed in on a little reward Monday after a strenuous workout at the Sugar Bowl Stadium, where they will meet Auburn Saturday.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks said he had brought his team to New Orleans a full week before the game partly so they could enjoy the city as a small prize for their efforts during the season.

Until Wednesday the team will have midnight curfews and will be allowed to roam in the French Quarter, where night life reigns.

Auburn is still at home in Alabama, working out on Tiger Field. They will arrive in New Orleans Wednesday.

Fairbanks said he would leave it to the team not to abuse the free time at night.

He also indicated the weather was an important factor in his decision to come South early.

"So far it's been perfect for us," he said. "Warm, beautiful days. However, we're not ready to play yet."

Working for two hours under overcast skies with temperatures in the 70s, the defensive team drilled at recognizing Auburn's offensive plays.

The second-team offense ran through Auburn's offensive variations for the first-team defense, mainly short-yardage plays in the middle of the field and near the goal line.

The offense worked against the second-team defensive unit, practicing "the same things they worked on all season, Fairbanks said.

'Withholding In '72 To Equal Tax Due'

Washington (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said Monday new tax legislation increasing the personal income tax exemption should make the amount withheld from paychecks in 1972 more nearly equal the tax due, for most wage earners.

Many wage earners, faced with big tax bills in April despite withholding during the year, claimed fewer exemptions than they are entitled to, so the withholding would be increased and the tax due would be little or nothing when returns are filed.

The IRS said this should be unnecessary in 1972 for wage earners with families, because the new law increases the exemption for each dependent from $675 to $750.

The IRS advised wage earners with families to adjust their income tax withholding exemption certificates (W-4 forms) to claim the exact number of personal exemptions to which they are entitled. Otherwise, it said, their employers may withhold more than necessary, and thus reduce needlessly the take-home pay.

Any amount overwithheld, of course, could still be recovered in a refund when tax returns are filed.

The IRS also advised unmarried wage earners who make less than $25,000 a year, or married wage earners with wives who don't work and who make less than $31,000 a year, to claim a new "special withholding allowance" to prevent overwithholding from paychecks. This amounts to an extra personal exemption not actually allowed when the tax return is filed.

It also suggested that if a taxpayer's itemized deductions are substantially larger than the standard deduction, he should claim the "additional withholding allowances" that amount also to an extra personal exemption.

Important News About the News Media for Advertisers and Agencies

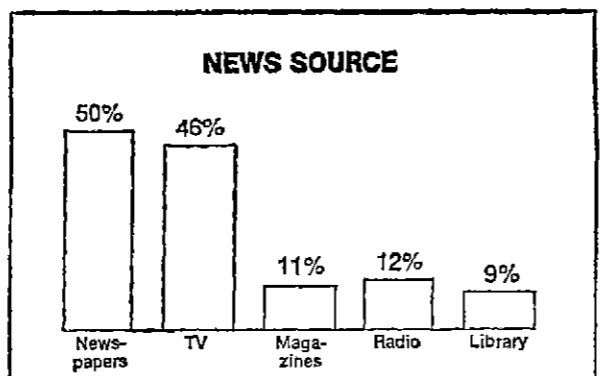

Today as never before, Americans need information—about events, about people, about products. Read how they use the news media to meet this need.

In March, 1971, Opinion Research Corporation was commissioned to find out how Americans gather the information they need to conduct their daily lives.

Here, from a nationwide sample of 2,023 men and women age 18 and over, are some of the key findings of that research.

1. When people want to find out about news they are very much interested in, they rely on the newspaper more than any other medium.

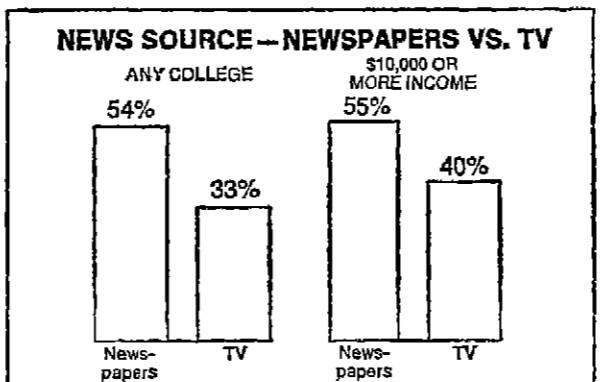

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Suppose there is some news you are very much interested in. Where would you be most likely to find out all there is about it?" Here's how people answered:

Clearly, newspapers are America's prime medium for news. Only television comes close, and as we shall see, television does not come close among your best customers.

2. The newspapers' lead over television is greatest among the people advertisers want to reach most.

Asked the same question about news, people who had attended college named newspapers over television by a substantial 54% to 33% margin. Those with incomes of $10,000 or more gave newspapers a 55% to 40% advantage over television. Thus:

The high-spending 30-49 age group chose newspapers over television by 56% to 45%. Even among the 18-29 age group, supposedly "the television generation," newspapers were named as the news source for 46% of the sample compared to 40% for television.

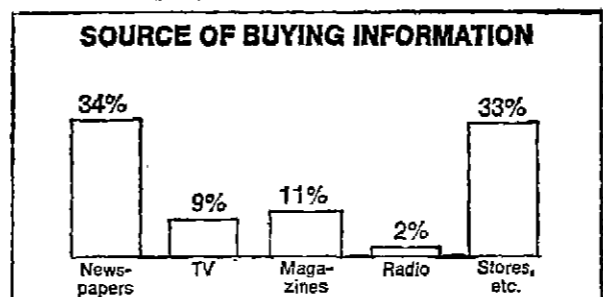

In fact, television led only among those with less than a high school education (55% to 43%), those with incomes under $5,000 (53% to 43%) and those age 50 or over (51% to 43%).

Your best customers, then, rely very heavily on newspapers for their news. But that's not all. Read on.

3. When people are ready to buy, they turn to newspapers for the facts they need by more than 3 to 1 over any other news medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "When you are ready to buy something, where are you most likely to find the kind of advertising that gives you the facts you want to know?"

Here's how people answered:

Obviously, when people actually start shopping for something in your product category, your advertisement had better be in the newspaper.

4. The most desirable prospects prefer newspapers over television even more strongly as a source of advertising information.

Among those with at least some college, newspapers outsourced television by 27% to 4%. People with incomes of $10,000 or more named newspapers over television by 30% to 6%.

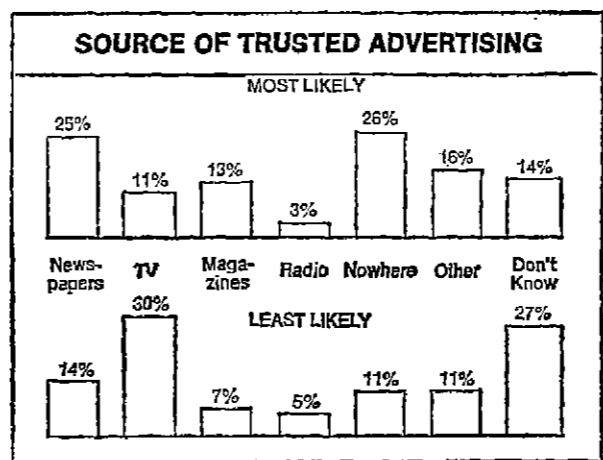

Among young adults (ages 18-29), newspapers led television by 28% to 6%.

Even among television's "best customers" (low-income, low education, age 50 and over), newspapers had a better than 2½ to 1 advantage.

No question about it. The more desirable the customer, the more likely he or she is to be looking for your advertisement—literally looking for it—in the newspaper.

5. People trust advertising in newspapers far more than in any other medium.

Opinion Research Corporation asked: "Where are you personally most likely to find advertising that can be trusted? And where are you least likely to?" Here's how people answered:

Trust in advertising is concentrated in newspapers, while distrust is even more strikingly concentrated on television. With today's growing need for believability, advertisers who use newspapers to carry their messages are getting an important advantage over television.

6. Key demographic groups trust newspaper advertising overwhelmingly compared to television advertising.

Once again, the better-educated, higher-income, more youthful groups give newspapers the widest margin over television.

	Most likely to find advertising that can be trusted	Least likely to find advertising that can be trusted
	Newspapers	TV
Any college:	20%	15%
$10,000 + income:	23%	6%
Age 18-29:	21%	7%
	TV	Newspapers
	42%	37%
	37%	38%

These more sophisticated groups are far more suspicious of television, far more likely to believe what they see in a newspaper advertisement.

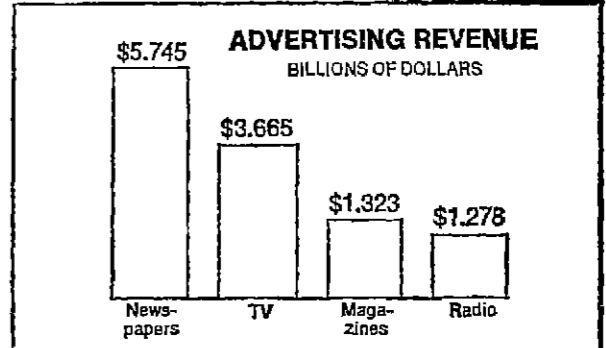

To summarize: Americans rely on the newspaper as their most complete, most trustworthy source of information, whether it is news or advertising. And the better the education and income level, the more this is true.

The findings of the Opinion Research Corporation are strongly confirmed by other equally unbiased statistical data.

Simmons '70, for example, reports that 78 out of every 100 adult Americans read at least one newspaper on the average weekday, far more than are exposed to any other news medium. Simmons also confirms the newspaper's leadership among "best customer" groups, too: daily readership is 87% among college graduates, 84% among those earning $10,000 or more, 86% among under-25 married couples.

While television ratings have dropped over the past five years, the newspaper business has never been healthier. In 1970, circulation increased to a record daily average of 62,107,527.

Advertising revenue is growing still faster. In fact, newspaper advertising revenue has consistently outpaced even the massive growth of the Gross National Product since 1945. In 1970, advertisers spent $5,745,000,000 on newspaper advertising, $3,665,000,000 on television, $1,323,000,000 in magazines, and $1,278,000,000 on radio. To put it another way, advertisers spent almost as much in newspapers, as in TV, magazines and radio combined.

Further, preliminary figures show that for the first three months of 1971 newspaper advertising revenues increased 6.6% overall, with national advertising up an impressive 12.7%.

As an advertising or marketing man, you might want to take an especially hard look at that last figure. Even national advertisers, wedded so long to the computerized cost per thousand efficiencies of television, are once again realizing that their customers are flesh-and-blood people rather than mere numbers. And that—as the Opinion Research Corporation study shows—the way people use the mass media is at least as important to an advertiser as simple exposure to advertising messages alone.

Retailers, whose advertising must produce traceable results in a day or two, have never forgotten this stern fact. They cannot hide behind exposure figures: they must have sales. That is why department stores quite wisely spend an overwhelming 80% of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

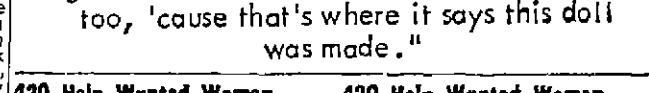

If you are not taking advantage of the newspaper's unique place in your customers' lives and overwhelmingly strong position as the Number One medium for news information and advertising information, let us show you how newspaper advertising can help you.

The complete results of the Opinion Research Corporation's study of the news media and how people use them have been summarized in a booklet, "News About The News Media." Ask your newspaper representative for a copy, or call or write this newspaper.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

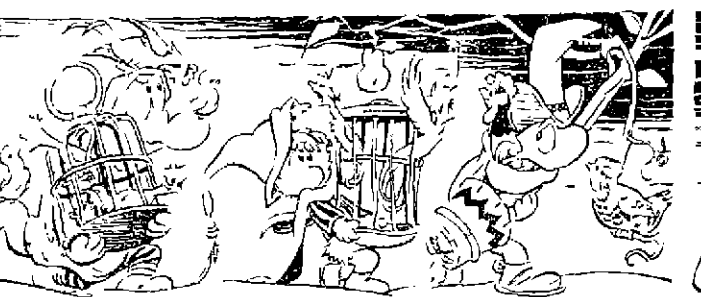

"It was a Christmas gift—right? You don't have to say a word."

SCHOOL OF DENTISTRY

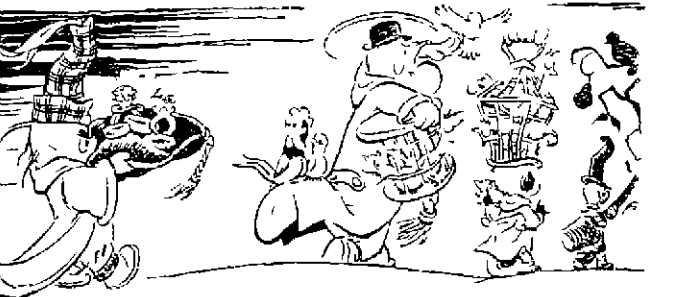

"I'd planned to go back and practice in my home town but now they've got fluoridation."

POGO

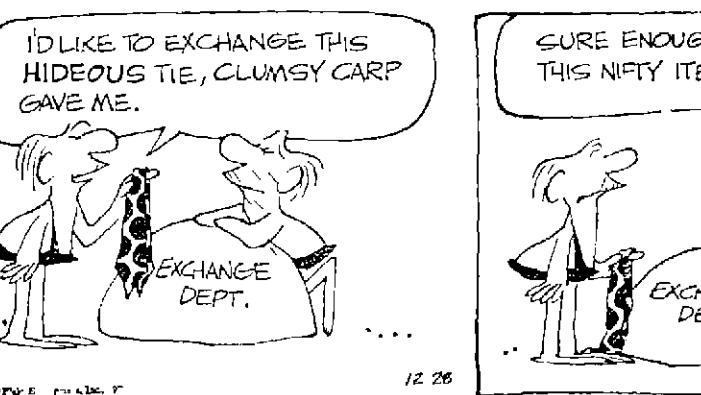

On the fourth day of Christmas my true love Sent to me four calling birds, three French Hens, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree

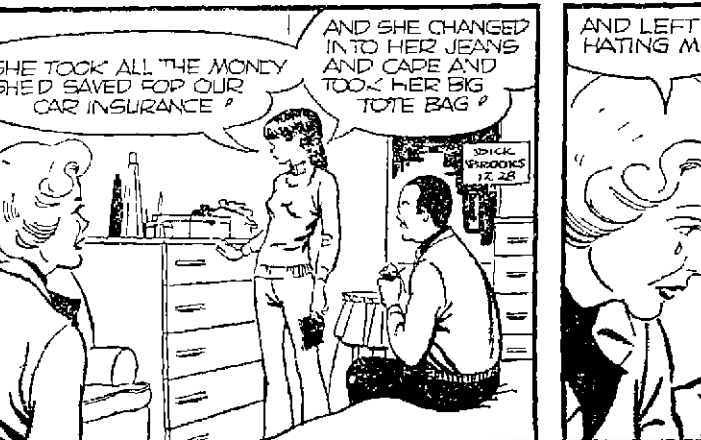

On the fifth day of Christmas my true love Sent to me five gold rings, four calling birds, Three French Hens, two turtle doves And a partridge in a pear tree

THE RYATTS

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

London public transportation system like that of other major cities is overcrowded

Parisians have sugar coated beignets with onion soup

Some parts of the London subway are 100 years old

Many American families are building their own three bedroom castles in Spain where the living is economical

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

One letter's empty stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and oration of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 11 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 11, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you right.
